ALF HAYMAN'S SISTERS WILL NOT CONTEST HIS WILL

Touched by Care Given Him in Illness by Ann Murdock, Actress, Who Gets Residuary Estate.

"SHE WILL NOT ENJOY MONEY," WIFE SAYS

Comment of Widow, Separated From Hayman Four Years, on Bequest to Miss Murdock.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 15.—The question whether there will be a contest of the will of Alf Hayman, former head of Charles Frohman, Inc., who cut off his wife and two sisters and left his residuary estate to Ann Murdock, an actress, remains unanswered, except on the part of the sisters.

One of the latter, Mrs. Rose Hochstadter of 270 Park avenue, speaking for herself and Mrs. Blanche Meyer of 428 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, declared they were satisfied with their brother's will and had been touched by the tender care lavished upon their brother by Miss Murdock during his last illness.

As for Mrs. Hayman, the wife, who had been living apart from her husband for four years, and who was not mentioned by him in his will, she declined to comment on her husband's will, except to tell that Miss Murdock would not derive any happiness from the money she was bequeathed.

Her attorney, William Travers Jerome, at first discounted any talk of a contest by Mrs. Hayman, saying she had been provided for under a separate agreement entered into four years ago. Later a rumor that she had been retained by Mrs. Murdock to bring a contest was circulated, but not confirmed.

"The way of the transgressor is hard," declared Mrs. Hayman, in referring to her husband's bequest to Miss Murdock. "The money will not buy her happiness and she will not enjoy it." She then referred all further inquiries to Jerome.

Attitude of Sisters.
The impossibility of a contest by either of the sisters was evident from statements to the Post-Dispatch by Mrs. Hochstadter and Mrs. Meyer.
The latter was "perfectly satisfied" with her brother's will and did not contemplate any contest. Like her sister, she said she had never met Mrs. Hayman and knew nothing about her. Both sisters were at Hay-man's bedside when he died.

"I am not only satisfied with my brother's disposition of his estate; I am pleased, and so is my sister," said Mrs. Hochstadter. "The thought of a contest never occurred to either of us. He made his own money and had a right to dispose of it as he pleased."

She said she had never met her brother's wife, but knew that they had been living apart for about four years. "None of the family ever met her," she said. She declared she had not met Miss Murdock until she went to visit her brother when he was ill.
She said she found Miss Murdock nursing him. "I liked very much the splendid care she took of my brother while he was sick," she said.

The close regard in which Hayman held Miss Murdock, who quit the Frohman company in 1916 because she was not satisfied with the pay he was selecting for her, is evidenced in his will, in which he gave her not only a life interest in his residuary estate, but made her his executrix and gave her the power of disposing of the principal of the estate by will.

There is also the testimony of the employees at the apartment house at 618 Fifth avenue, where Hayman made his home, to the effect that Miss Murdock and her mother, Mrs.
Teresa Coleman, were frequent visitors there, and newspaper clippings reveal that Miss Murdock made a trip to Europe with Hayman in the summer of 1919, returning a month later on the same boat with him.

Statement by Jerome.
Jerome, when asked about the possibility of a contest, said: "I have received no word from Mrs.
Hayman with reference to contest-ing the will, and as far as I can see just now, no basis exists upon which to establish a suit to break it. I do as I know, Mr. Hayman was of sound mind."

He added that at the time Hayman and his wife separated three or four years ago, ample provision had been made for Mrs. Hayman during her lifetime and that her income from her husband's estate was assured as long as she lived. Another report from a different source was to the effect that Mrs. Hayman had been guaranteed an annual income of $10,000 and had been made the beneficiary of a trust.

AFTER JUNE 20, GIRLS UNDER 21 MUST HAVE PARENTS' CONSENT TO WED

JEFFERSON CITY, June 15.— AFTER June 20, only women who are 21 years old may be married without the consent of their parents, under an opinion by Assistant Attorney-General Albert Miller, rendered to the Secretary of State. This opinion is to the effect that the bill No. 147 of the Fifty-first General Assembly, defining the term "minors" to include "all persons who have not attained the age of 21 years," automatically works a change in the law concerning the issuance of marriage licenses, and that from and after June 20, 1921, all persons, females as well as males, in order to secure a license to marry shall, if they have not attained the age of 21 years, obtain the consent of his or her father, mother or guardian as the case may be, except in cases of females who shall have attained the age of 18 years prior to the 20th day of June, 1921.

HORSESHOE PITCHING CHAMPIONSHIP GETS INTO THE COURTS

Defeated Iowan Says Pegs Were Too Far Apart, Referee Refuses to Pay Stake, and Winner Sues.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 15.—The horseshoe pitching contest Sunday, in which Frank Jackson, Kellertown, Ia., world champion, was defeated, 175 to 300, by C. C. Davis of Columbus, O., got into the courts here today after the referee refused to pay the $400 stake.

Jackson said the pegs were to be set 40 feet apart, and after his poor showing, he measured the distance and found it to be 41 feet. He protested.

Davis sued the referee, and the Court now has the money.

DENBY REGAINING 20 TO 40 POUNDS HE LOST DURING WAR

Secretary of Navy Boats Holding Record of Marine Corps for Weight Reduction.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—If the United States doesn't go to war soon, some of the noted heavyweights will have a rival for honors in the person of Secretary of the Navy Denby.

"Every time we go to war I lose 20 to 40 pounds," the Secretary told the graduating classes of Georgetown University last night, "but the country is so kind to me in peace time that I gain it all back again with interest. You have to see another war for this nation, but we will have to engineer one if this thing keeps up."

Secretary Denby boasts of holding the record of the Marine Corps for weight reduction. He says he lost more pounds during his first month of training as a "buck" private than any recruit in the history of the corps.

He said he had never met her
not met Miss Murdock until she went
to visit her brother when he was ill.

IN STABLE OWNED BY AN ALDERMAN

Harry Uhlemeyer Is Taken to Federal Building by City Detective and Released by Federal Official.

NEARLY 200 BARRELS FOUND BY RAIDERS

Anti-Saloon League Superintendent Leads Detectives to Place—Contents Analyzed at 2.74 Per Cent Alcohol.

Alderman Harry W. Uhlemeyer of the Fifteenth Ward was taken to the Federal Building this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Collard, after a sample bottle containing a liquid chemically analyzed as beer of 2.74 per cent alcoholic content had been taken from the stable of the Acme Drayage Co., of which Uhlemeyer is secretary-treasurer, at 2414-16 Niedard street. The bottle was taken from one of a large number of barrels, filled with bottles of a liquid apparently the same.

Assistant District Attorney Ely said, when Alderman Uhlemeyer was taken to his office, that he had no charge to place against him. He had at that time applied to United States Commissioner Mitchell for the issuance of a search warrant, and had arranged with the United States Marshal's office to have Deputy Marshall search the stable premises and seize the supposed beer. The search warrant was issued at 3:40 p. m.

Says He Retired Stable.
Uhlemeyer was permitted to leave the Federal building, he said, and Post-Dispatch reporter that he knew nothing as to the contents of the barrels in the stable, and he said he owned the stable and rented the space to the Acme Drayage Co., whose name, and whose address, Uhlemeyer said, he did not remember.

Uhlemeyer was taken in charge by Collard when he visited the stable and asked policemen, on guard there, pending an application for a search warrant, as to their right to be on the premises.

Detective Sgt. Collard, who obtained the sample bottle, said he believed there was 400 barrels or more, each containing five cases of bottles, or 120 bottles to a barrel. Policemen who remained on guard said they thought the number of barrels was smaller than Collard's estimate, probably about 200.

Shupp Gets Police Aid.
Supt. W. C. Shupp of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League obtained information recently that barrels were being hauled to the drayage company's stable. He applied for a search warrant, but Assistant United States District Attorney Ely refused to issue the warrant, on the ground that he had no evidence that the barrels contained beer.

Shupp then determined to make an effort to get the evidence required. He applied to President Miller of the Police Board, who detailed Sgt. Collard, with two special policemen, and Shupp accompanied them to the stable.

Shupp and the detectives found the stable locked and saw barrels behind a pile of cardboard boxes.
One of the men entered through an unlocked window and took the sample bottle from one of the barrels, the top of which was fastened.

2.74 Per Cent Alcohol.
A guard was placed around the stable and the bottle to the District Attorney's office. Ely then demanded chemical evidence that it was beer of an illegal alcoholic percentage, and Collard had a hurried chemical analysis made, which showed 2.74 per cent alcohol. The search warrant was then issued.

Inquiry of the Prohibition Enforcement Office, in the old Federal Building, Third and Olive streets, showed that no enforcement officer was in the city. The Marshal's office was then asked to lend men for the work of serving the search warrant.

While the guards waited outside the stable, it was noticed that three horse-drawn wagons loaded with barrels were standing near the stable. One of the wagons, to which the horses were still attached, was said by persons in the neighborhood to have been there since noon. The other wagons were the property of the drayage company.

A man came to the stable and said the night watchman had told him to take one of the teams to a blacksmith shop and have it shod. He was not permitted to take it away.
He was followed and went to a blacksmith shop.

William C. Sipple Jr. is president of the Acme Drayage Co., and the bottles, according to Sgt.
Collard and Supt. Shupp, were unlabeled, and the caps were without any mark. Shupp said they were

SECRETARY HUGHES IN SPEECH TELLS WHY WE WENT TO WAR

"We Found Our Fate Linked With That of the Free Peoples Who Were Struggling for Preservation of Essentials of Freedom."

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 15.— Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes told a gathering of his fellow alumni of Brown University today that it was not desirable that America's helpful influence should be frittered away "by relating ourselves unnece-sarily to political questions which involve rivalries of interest abroad with which we have no proper concern."

"It is equally true," he continued, "that we cannot escape our relation to the economic problems of the world." Prosperity of this country, he said, largely depended upon the economic settlements which might be made in Europe, and the key to the future was with those who made and controlled these settlements.

America, the exemplar of free institutions, aiding humanity in their preservation, he said, called forth the supreme endeavor in the World War. "This sentiment is still with us," he added. "We have not lost," said he, "the capacity for the high and unselfish endeavor."

Why We Went to War.
"Our men did not go forth to fight for this nation, as one of imperialistic designs and cunning purpose, or

GREAT BRITAIN TO SPEND ONLY $10,000,000 ON CAPITAL SHIPS

Number of Great Battleships Is Being Steadily Reduced, Estimates Show.

LONDON, June 15.—The total expenditure proposed this year in building of capital ships for the British navy is £2,000,000 (nominally about $10,000,000). Lieutenant-Colonel Amery, parliamentary and financial secretary to the admiralty, stated in the House of Commons today.

Lord Lee of Fareham, First Lord of the British Admiralty, announced in London, on March 14, last, that the British navy would in 1921 £2,000,000 net.

In his statement explaining the estimate, Lord Lee pointed out that economies proposed included a reduction in the number of capital ships in full commission from 20 to 16, as compared with 38 in 1914.
The sum of £2,000,000 had been included in the estimates for replacement ships, he added, in view of the fact that some of the capital ships of the older types were virtually obsolete.

Document Disposing of Dr. F. D.
Wright's $500 Ring Is Filed in Probate Court.

A codicil to the will of Dr. Francis D. Wright, of 1914 East Grand avenue, written on a prescription blank, was found yesterday at the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. and filed in the Probate Court.

The codicil, executed Feb. 15, 1920, provides that a $500 diamond ring, which Dr. Wright wore, is to be given to Elia Loftus, Dr. Wright, in his original will, died shortly after his death. April 19, 1920, disposed of the remainder of his estate as follows:

To Dr. T. R. Ayars, library and surgical instruments; to Miss Joseph Fiege, $2,000 in recognition of faithful service; and to his wife, Mrs. Elia Loftus, $10,000 each in his home; $10,000 each to Mrs. Olivia Wessons and Mabel Prudence Bube, nieces of his deceased wife, and the residue to his sister, Mrs. Eugenia Stark of Pierce City, Mo.

The estate consists of $12,183 personal property and the East Grand avenue residence.

MRS. ORTHWEIN SOBS AGAIN AT TRIAL FOR KILLING ZIEGLER

In Tears When Witnesses Tell of Her Actions and Words After Shooting in Apartment.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Mrs. Cora Isabelle Orthwein sobbed again in court today when her trial for the murder of Herman Ziegler was resumed. She broke into tears as witnesses told of her actions and words when police were summoned to the apartment following the shooting.

Patrolman John Burns testified that he stood beside the body of Mrs. Orthwein said "Damn his soul."
He won't do it again."

Plans of the State to place Mrs.
Neva Orthwein, first wife of Ralph Orthwein, of St. Louis and Kansas City, on the stand to testify that Mrs. Cora Isabelle Orthwein broke up her home, were deferred today.
She will testify later.

Ziegler was named today as co-respondent in an indictment filed against Mrs. Charlotte Lewinsky, ky, the "Kissing Blonde," whose friendship with Ziegler, the State contends, caused Mrs. Orthwein to kill the man in a fit of jealousy. At a hearing on Mrs. Lewinsky's petition for alimony Monday, she attempted to throw the court's ink well at her husband's lawyer.

GRAFT IN ARMY CONTRACT ALLEGED

War Department's Arrangement With Harness Concern Annulled by President.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—On advice of the Attorney-General, President Harding has annulled War Department contracts with the United States Harness Co. for disposal of surplus harness.

Daughterly held these contracts to violate criminal code sections prohibiting participation by Government officials or employees in such transactions.

The President's action was disclosed in a memorandum made public today by Secretary Weeks saying in part:

"These contracts were entered into by the former director of sales, with the approval of Secretary Baker, and provided that the large accumulation of stock of surplus harness and accessories, which were to be turned over to the United States Harness Co. to be reconditioned and sold, or sold in its original condition upon a profit-sharing basis."

The facts developed by the Attorney-General led him to the conclusion that these contracts had been entered into as a result of a conspiracy on the part of certain former temporary officers of the army to secure these contracts and the control of large stocks of harness on hand for their own benefit.

"The War Department has naturally followed the advice of the law officer of the Government in this matter."

LEBANON MAN NAMED HEAD OF NEW STATE PRISON BOARD

Arthur T. Nelson Chosen by Gover-

Rent profiteers do not flourish in Linn, Mo., and residents of that quiet and beautiful little town remote from the rumble of a railroad train have never been vexed by the high cost of living, says A. C. McKibbin, publicity director of the Republican State Committee. McKibbin has just installed a newspaper in Linn.

"After I had closed the deal for the office for my paper," he said, "I was asked if I did not want to rent a handsome new cottage close by.
The cottage stood in a large yard, with a fine garden attached. I inquired what the rent would be and was told that I could have it for $5 a month."

A suit for $10,000 damages, based upon an alleged death from falling tion for damages that his wife, Mrs.

Callie Rail, died, April 28, from injuries suffered on Jan. 28, when the cellar plaster in the house at 1821 North Newstadt avenue fell upon her. He declares that the landlord,

RALPH CHANGES
BILL TO MAKE BOARD BIPARTISAN

Road Measure, Introduced, Calls for Commission of Four Members, and Fifth

EXPECTED TO WIN OVER DEMOCRATS

Chairman of Senate Highway Committee Expects to Call Meeting Early Next Week.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Senator Ralph, chairman of the Senate Committee on Roads and Highways, today changed his road bills to provide for a bipartisan State highway commission instead of a partisan commission, as contemplated in the original Ralph bills. The change is in line with the position taken by Gov. Hyde in an interview in yesterday's Post-Dispatch and, it is believed, will bring many Democratic members to the support of the Ralph program.

As amended, the commission of three provided for in the original bill, of which a synopsis was published in the Post-Dispatch a week ago, is changed to a commission of four, with the State Geological survey as a fifth member, serving only in an advisory capacity and without a vote.

The first four members to be appointed will be for terms of two, four, six and eight years, and on the expiration of the term of each of these commissioners his successor will be appointed for a term of six years.

Bill Introduced.
The bill, introduced today, provides that not more than two members of the commission shall be members of the same political party.

There was more or less opposition to the Ralph program among Democrats in the Legislature because, as originally drawn, the bills would have given the Democrats no representation on the commission.

"I have not the slightest objection to a bipartisan commission," Ralph said today, "and he made the change in the bill. I have also arranged the dates of expiration of members' terms so that after the present administration, no Governor will have the appointment of more than two commissioners."

The bill provides that the Governor shall have the power to remove any member of the commission who is incompetent or inefficient, or who is guilty of misconduct in office.

Meeting Next Week.
Ralph expects to call a meeting of the Roads Committee for early next week to begin hearings on the bill.
Senator McCullough of Knox County introduced a bill to require the Highway Board to follow the highway system laid out by the present Highway Commissioner under the McCullough-Morgan road law.

U. S. AND JAPAN TAKE UP ISSUES FOR SETTLEMENT

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 15.—Direct negotiations have been begun between the United States and Japan for the settlement of the questions pending between them.

These include the Island of Yap, the immigration question, the alien land question and the return of Shantung to China by Japan.

The negotiations are being conducted by Baron Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador, and Secretary Hughes.

The settlement of the Yap question would make unneces-

NEVADA (MO.) MAN FINED $200 UNDER MIGRATORY BIRD ACT

Druggist Alleged to Have Had a Pintail Duck in Possession Out of Season.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
JOPLIN, Mo., June 15.—Clay Tucker, a druggist of Nevada, Mo., was fined $200 for violation of the migratory bird treaty act, in the Federal Court here Monday. He was alleged to have had in his possession a pintail duck out of season. He paid his fine.

Harry Barmeyer of St. Louis, United States Game Warden, who arrested Tucker at Stutz Lake, near Nevada, Feb. 24 last, was here for the hearing.

Former Attorney-General McAl-ister was fined in the last term of court here for a similar offense.
Barmeyer declared, "and sportsmen became aware of the fact. Nevada men promised not to kill birds out of season from their elaborate blinds at Stutz Lake, but the sport became slaughter and there was evidence birds had been killed and piled around the blinds to rot."

"Oh, we don't consider the pintail a duck down here one of the sportsmen explained. The fining of McAl-ister had not taught the lesson we hoped for."

Good results are being obtained from enforcing the migratory bird act and we will keep on making arrests until the law is generally obeyed."

The bird act, according to Bar-meyer, has increased the number of ducks five times since it went into effect.

200 VIGILANTES TO DRIVE ABOUT CITY TOMORROW NIGHT

Safety Council Members Will Observe and Report on Violations of Traffic Laws.

Nearly 200 members of the Vigilance Committee, of the St. Louis Chapter, National Safety Council, are expected to drive about the city in their automobiles tomorrow night, observing and reporting violations of the traffic, lighting and parking laws. All the members have been asked to serve tomorrow night, and many of them will be on duty on subsequent nights.

The Vigilantes have been selected on a basis of past care in observing the traffic ordinances. No one who has been fined for violating any traffic law is eligible to have a badge.
The appointments and distribution of badges are subject to the approval of Chief of Police O'Brien. It is intended to increase the number of the Vigilantes from 150 to about 350.
A stenographer is to work at Police Headquarters, paid by the Safety Council, but at the direction of the Chief of Police, in the handling of the correspondence resulting from the work of the Vigilantes.

DISARMAMENT RESOLUTION IN LABOR CONVENTION

Proposal in A. F. L. Meeting in Denver That President and Congress Lead World in Movement.

SUPPORT FOR IRISH REPUBLIC DEMANDED

Resolution for Boycott of English-Made Goods Wid-ens Split Among Irish Sympathizers.

By the Associated Press.
DENVER, June 15.—President Harding and Congress are urged to lead the way in bringing about world disarmament in a resolution presented today to the forty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Irish sympathizers today replied to the warning sounded yesterday by J.
H. Thomas, British labor leader, that organized labor of America could not solve the Irish question by introducing resolutions demanding action on the part of the convention supporting the Irish republic.

Failing to get recognition in the resolution drafted by the committee appointed by a mass meeting of Irish sympathizers, representatives of the Irish republic presented two resolutions demanding boycott of English-made goods and concerns in this country by American workers.

The boycott resolutions have caused the split among the Irish sympathizers to widen. They are reported to have been drawn by "high officials of the Irish republic." But they failed to get the support of the delegates who signed the resolution drafted by a commission of Irish sympathizers.

Resolutions presented to the convention as drawn at a mass meeting of Irish sympathizers and signed by nearly 150 delegates reaffirm the stand of the Montreal convention, in support of the Irish republic and ask that Congress be forwarded to President Harding and his Cabinet, urging recognition of the Irish republic and asking that a protest be made to Great Britain against the "brutal and uncivilized war now being conducted in Ireland."

The executive officers of the federation are also instructed under the resolutions to communicate with Congress, urging immediate legislation necessary to bring about a recognition of the Irish republic and urging the President and Congress to demand from Great Britain the defaulted interest on the loan now due the United States.

Trade Union Co-operation.

Cooperation of the trade unions in Great Britain and all other colonies would also be requested, and a special resolution be sent immediately by the executive council to the British Premier, his Cabinet and members of Parliament, protesting against the campaign of violence and destruction.

The resolutions also pledge support to Irish trade unionists, and instruct the federation's officers to "take up with the trade unions of Great Britain, her colonies and dominions a proposal to inaugurate a campaign for the trial and punishment of officers and men of the British regular and auxiliary forces guilty of atrocities in Ireland in a manner similar to that in which the German officers are now being tried and punished for their violation of the laws of civilized warfare in France and Belgium."

HAYMAN'S SISTERS SAY THEY WON'T CONTEST HIS WILL

Refusal of a life insurance policy taken out by her husband for a large sum.

From a person intimately acquainted with Hayman's affairs, it was learned that his estate is not expected to amount to more than $100,000 after all claims are settled.
According to this person, Hayman, through successful stock market operations, ran his fortune up to about $1,000,000, but the high cost of living and the uncertain times that followed the war materially decreased this amount. His theatrical holdings, it is said, form only a small part of his fortune. Most of it is in stocks and bonds, or other forms of enterprise. Hayman, according to his attorneys, possessed no real estate.

Amendment to Rules Also Affects Former Vice Presidents Who Are Attorneys.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 15.—Under an amendment to its rules made today by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, former Presidents and Vice Presidents of the United States "who are attorneys at law" will be admitted to practice before the court "without formal application or other requirements." The action of the Justices will permit Woodrow Wilson to practice on a motion for his admission, without the customary five years' practice.
William H. Taft and Thomas R.
Marshall also may practice before the court if they so desire.

NEW CHIEFTAINS OF AMERICAN LEGION

JOHN G. EMERY

Thomas Bannigan
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
INDIANAPOLIS, June 15.—The National Executive Committee of the American Legion yesterday elected John G. Emery of Grand Rapids, Mich., commander, to succeed Col.
F. W. Galbraith Jr. of Indianapolis.
The election took place at the annual convention of the legion, which opened last Thursday night. Thomas Bannigan of Connecticut was named vice commander, succeeding Emery in that post.

MISSOURI HOUSE VOTES FOR UNLIMITED NUMBER OF CLERKS Republicans Override Democratic Opposition and Vote to Hire Relatives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
The House went on record today in favor of nepotism and an unlimited number of clerks. A resolution adopted gives the Clerical Force Committee power to employ as many clerks as it deems necessary. By a large majority the House also voted to permit members to place their wives and other relatives on the public pay roll.

The question arose when Representative Morgan of Putnam County, Republican floor leader, introduced a resolution which ostensibly fixed the size of the clerical force at 30, but which in a final paragraph permitted the Clerical Force Committee to add such clerks as it deemed necessary.

Representative Ferguson of Ripley County, Democratic floor leader, charged the Republicans with "throwing open the doors." He said there should be a limit placed on the number.

Representative Davidson then offered an amendment to prohibit the employment of relatives of a member. "The Republican party always has opposed nepotism," Davidson said. "If you think anything of your party, send your relatives home."

On the roll call, nearly all the Republicans voted for nepotism and the Democrats against it. The vote was 37 ayes, 80 noes and 25 absent. The Morgan resolution then was passed without a record vote.

The latter surrendered to the Sheriff.
Domestic difficulties are said to have caused the fight.

SAYS MRS. PEPPER STATED SHE WOULD TREAT SON FAIRLY

Charles Pepper, Her Cousin, Deposes in Will Contest That She Made Remark About Property.

TELLS OF ARGUMENTS AMONG RELATIVES

Says Ruth Bushman and Widow's Daughter, Estelle, Would Quarrel About the Housekeeping.

Charles Pepper of 4448 Washington boulevard, a lawyer, giving his deposition yesterday in the contest of the will of Mrs. Caroline J. Pepper, widow of the founder of the Christian Pe-per Tobacco Co., who died at the age of 70, said that he had heard Mrs.
Pepper, who was his first cousin, say during her lifetime that she would treat Christian Pepper Bushman, her son, "fairly" in the disposition of her property.

As is known, Christian Pepper Bushman, his wife and 11-year-old daughter, Ruth, filed the contest, naming Bushman's sister, Miss Estelle Pepper Bushman, as principal defendant. The estate has an estimated value of $750,000. Under the will it was to be divided into three equal shares, one going directly to Miss Estelle Pepper Bushman, one to be held in trust for Christian Pepper Bushman during his lifetime and for his young son for 30 years thereafter, and the third to go in trust for 25 years for Christian Pepper, 9 years old, son of Clarence Pepper, who died three years ago. There was a provision that any heir who contested should be cut off with $1.
The depositions of Charles Pepper and others were taken before Special Commissioner Marion C. Early.

Tells of Arranging Loan.

Interesting excerpts from the testimony of Charles Pepper, who was commissioner and by lawyers on both sides, follow:
"I lived at Mrs. Pepper's house for the last 12 or 15 years, off and on, and regularly for the last five years.
In 1917 I borrowed $2500 for her at the Cass Avenue Bank, but she later cut this down to $1750. For this loan she pledged 100 shares of stock of the tobacco company, par value $100.

"During the two years before her death on Aug. 1, 1920, I sometimes had to carry her upstairs or otherwise assist her on account of a paralytic stroke she had had. About 1911 she transferred a great deal of her property to Estelle and I heard conversations of the family then in which she promised to treat Christian Pepper Bushman fairly in disposing of her property. Estelle was present at some of these conversations."

"Do you recall what Estelle would say then?" Pepper was asked.
"No, but it would usually end up in an argument," the witness replied.
"I know that recently Estelle and Ruth Bushman were not on friendly terms and would even quarrel about the housekeeping. (All of the parties concerned lived at the Washington boulevard house.) There has been ill feeling between the plain-tiff's wife and Estelle since before 1920.

Heard Contestant Quarrel.
"I can't recall that Ruth treated her grandmother disrespectfully or that her mother did. Christian Pe-per Bushman used to quarrel with his mother, but I never heard him curse her. I heard Estelle talk with her mother about Christian during the last year of Mrs. Pepper's life and she would say that he wouldn't work and was lazy."

Car of Dynamite Explodes When Trains Meet Head-on

One Locomotive Hurlled Over Other, 75 Feet of Track Torn Up in Freight Collision Near New Albany, Miss.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ALBANY, Miss., June 15.— Investigations are under way today to fix responsibility for the collision near this city last night of two St.
Louis and San Francisco Railway freight trains which resulted in the death of Frank Mals, a negro fireman, the injury of four other train-men and the explosion of a car of dynamite which scattered debris over cotton and corn fields for a distance of a mile or more.

Preliminary estimates placed the damage to railroad equipment and freight shipments at approximately $200,000.
All of the injured trainmen are expected to recover.
The train met head-on at Wal-terville, about four miles south of Christian Peper Tobacco Co., at Twelfth and Market streets, a number of years ago. I think they applied most of this money toward meeting a loan of about $150,000 at the Mortgage Trust Co. Some of it they used to improve adjacent buildings that were not destroyed.

"Mrs. Pepper's memory was good during the last two years of her life, but she cried rather easily during the last few years. She would cry about small things."

Did Not Know of Transfer.

Elmer C. Pepper, president of the Christian Peper Tobacco Co., testified briefly. He is the son of the late Christian Cornelius Pepper, who preceded him as president. Christian Cornelius Pepper, who died March 31, 1920, at the age of 75, was long known as Christian Pepper Jr., son of the founder of the company. The elder Christian Pepper's will called him "Christian Pepper, known as Cornelius" and in a bitter contest of the will in 1908 doubt was raised that Christian Cornelius Pepper was a son of Christian Pepper. It was charged that he was only a protégé.

Elmer Pepper is Estelle Bushman's cousin. He testified that he had no knowledge of a purported transfer of 789 shares of stock of the tobacco company from Mrs. Caroline J. Pe-per to Estelle Bushman. He said the tobacco company paid all the taxes and expenses of the Christian Peper estate until 1916.

Frank A. Mohr, a lawyer and notary, who worked for the law firm of Jones, Hooper & Davis in 1911, testified that he attested a deed conveying "most" of the Peper property to Estelle Bushman that year. He said he went to Mrs. Pepper's home and saw her sign the deed at the breakfast table.

Thomas W. Bennett, president of the Mortgage Trust Co., recalled having made a loan of about $150,000 to Mrs. Pepper & Davis in 1911, for the purpose of buying in all the Peper property at a partition sale, but he could not recall details. He said that with the consent of his attorneys he would prepare a written statement of the details.

Morton Jourdan, a lawyer, said he was attorney for Mrs. Pepper and Miss Bushman and that he had once been asked to prepare a deed for them, which sale was later set aside by the Circuit Court.

The trial of the suit is not expected to come up until autumn.

VETERANS IN SUMMER SCHOOL

More than 80 former service men, disabled in the war, from various parts of this district outside St.
Louis, have enrolled for the summer school of 10 weeks at Washington University, which began Monday.
These supplement about 100 students who attended the regular term that ended June 9, making a total close to 200. Arrivals during the week will bring the enrollment to about 250, the attendance estimate by the Government in its arrangements for the summer school.

STANDARDIZATION OF BREAD DISCUSSED AT BAKERS' MEETING

Director of American Institute of Baking Tells of Federal Work on Proposal.

Federal agencies are endeavoring to bring about the standardization of formulas and quality in bread making, Dr. H. E. Barnard, director of the American Institute of Baking, said today at the convention of the Retail Master Bakers' Association of America at Planters Hotel.

"For 50 years the standard of milk has been 3 1/2 per cent butter fat," he said. "Similar standards in vinegar and many other food products have been established. Now they are trying to standardize bread. The United States Standardization Committee, a Federal body, is working on the proposition. A standard will be adopted 'forbidding' bakers to put more than a certain amount of water in bread, forbidding them to load their bread with salt and limiting the temperature for baking. You bakes have an opportunity to help fix the standards by giving the committee facts."

J. C. Lewis of Minneapolis, Minn., president of the Bakers' Association, has expressed himself as favoring standardization of bread quality.

The statement that there has been a falling off of production in the last

"It is a falling off in shipments, ow-cent of the tank steamers are not operating, owing to the strike."

Wylie added that he would issue a statement today covering the situation more thoroughly.

Mexican Petroleum Shares Drop on New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Mexican petroleum shares dropped 10 points to 120 at the opening of today's stock market on heavy selling, induced by reports of the rapid depletion of Mexico's oil supply. The remainder of the market was more or sharp reaction.

SENSATION CAUSED BY POPE'S CRITICISM OF BRITISH POLICY

Vatican Assailed Action in Palestine and Urged League to Look into Mandate.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 15.—A dispatch to the London Times from Rome says that Pope Benedict's criticism of Great Britain's policy in Palestine, as outlined by the Pontiff Monday in his allocution to the secret consistory, caused a considerable sensation in diplomatic and other quarters.

It is maintained, says the dispatch, that diplomacy has had few instances of such plain speaking as the Pope's appeal to the nations to insist that the League of Nations examine into the British mandate.

BEER IS SEIZED IN STABLE OWNED BY ALDERMAN

Similar to the bottles taken last Saturday from the Griesedieck Brewery, 1900 Shenandoah avenue, in a raid.
That raid was also directed by Shupp, after a search warrant had been refused by the District Attorney's office.

Uhlemeyer was elected to the Board of Aldermen in April. He was president of the South Broadway Athletic Club, which conducts boxing matches, and he rented Weitz's Garden and dance hall from Anheuser-Busch for a year, but said he was taking no active part in its management.

Supt. Shupp said he was told that the price of beer of this quality is about $40 a barrel.

Doubt was expressed by persons who have watched recent cases in court whether a prosecution in the present case could be sustained, in view of the means taken to get the original evidence on which the search warrant was issued.

G. H. Force, a representative of the Anti-Saloon League, said he saw two wagonloads of the barrels taken from the stable between 7 p. m. yesterday and 9 a. m. today, while he was on watch there. If some of the beer had been taken from these wagons, the procedure might have been in conformity with the court requirements.

Two Boys Have Found it Easy to Earn Prize Bicycles From the Post-Dispatch Each Follows a Different Method in His Work

Philo Young, 12, Visits Father's Friends While Howard Butts, 7, Holds
"Front Porch Campaign."

Philo Young and Howard Butts, St. Louis boys who never before had seen each other, met yesterday afternoon at the Post-Dispatch office. In 15 minutes they were well acquainted and in 30 minutes they were chums, and Philo, who is 12, was helping Howard, who is only 7, take home the Ranger bicycle which he had won by getting 20 subscriptions for the Post-Dispatch. Showing that it is as easy for boys to get acquainted as to get subscriptions for the Post-Dispatch and that those who help them get subscriptions are teaching them to be helpful to each other.

Philo Young was the first winner of a Ranger. He has never had a bicycle, but has always wanted one. He learned to ride on other boys' wheels and did a lot of "prospecting," as he says, reading advertisements and sending for catalogues. When he took up the Post-Dispatch Friday afternoon to look at the want ads and the comics, he saw the Ranger announcement and it read like it meant him.

"I went to the Post-Dispatch," he said, "and got the particulars, and then I got busy. My father is a title examiner and all the men in the real estate offices know him, so I went down real estate row, telling everybody who I was and asking them to help me get a bicycle."

"I got four that afternoon and one man told me to get up and he would be the twentieth. Maybe he didn't think I could do it. Anyway, he said, he thought it would take me a long time. Well, I fooled him. I went back the next day and signed him up as No. 20."

Gets Subscriber Over Phone.
"I got most of them in the real estate offices, but I made a list of everybody I knew and called on some at their homes. But that was slow work without a bicycle to ride, so I called up a few on the telephone. One lady said she didn't need it because she was already getting it, but she said because I talked so nicely over the telephone she would take it and send it to a friend in the country."

"I don't mean to say it was all easy. I picked out the real estate offices because they are close together, but even at that there was lots of walking and my jaws got tired saying the same thing over and over but it shows what a boy can do when he sticks to it."

"I told all who subscribed that I would give them a ride on my bicycle. I don't know just how I am going to manage it but if they can find a place to sit on it I will give them a ride."

It was 5 o'clock Friday afternoon when Philo took out a subscription book. It was 1 p. m. Saturday when he returned it with 20 orders. The bicycles were not ready for delivery and he was asked to come back yesterday.

"I couldn't sleep last night," he said. "I was afraid it was too good to be true. I was afraid the bicycle factory and the Post-Dispatch would burn down before morning."

Held "Front Porch" Campaign.
It happened that when he reached the Post-Dispatch office that Howard Philo Young taking Howard Butts and his Ranger home.

Butts was there. Howard had taken out a book Saturday and had returned it Monday morning. He admits that his father helped him, but Howard is only 7. His part was to hold porch levees and show the picture of the Ranger and subtly intimate to the boys of the neighborhood that if they helped him win one they would not have occasion to regret it.

Howard could ride a little, due to the indulgence of other youths in his neighborhood who had wheels, but his mother, who came along, could not trust him to ride home alone and she could not see herself walking along, so there was a problem right off. The Post-Dispatch offered to send it out in a delivery wagon next morning but Howard would not hear to all that delay. Philo solved it. He would take Howard's wheel home first and come back and get his. That suited Howard, provided he could ride along on the carrier behind the seat. So it was arranged and Philo took Howard and his Ranger home and then went back for his.

One good thing about it, he got some practice for carrying the 20 grown men and women he has promised to take riding.

Sister's Chance for Ride.
Philo is the son of J. P. Young of the St. Louis Title Co. who lives at 3125 St. Vincent avenue. His mother and brother, Edward, are abroad, but his sister, Harriet, 3 years old, is at home, and it is a safe assertion that she will get some rides, the way Howard Butts rode home.

Philo plans to use his Ranger for going to summer school at the Wyman and for running errands, after he gets through giving rides to the 20 subscribers.

BOSTON COMPOSITORS VOTE TO REMAIN OUT

Unauthorized Strike Fails to Stop Publication of Papers, Which Get Out Small Editions.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, June 13.—Newspapers continued to publish here today despite the compositors' walkout. Photographic reproduction of typewritten articles, editorials and baseball scores helped to make up the eight-page editions issued by publishers' agreements.

The compositors who walked out of morning and evening paper offices Monday night and yesterday voted at a meeting last night not to return to work until their demands for a wage increase were granted. This action was taken after Sylvester J. McBride, president of Boston Typographical Union 13, had told the men they had made a mistake in going out, and urged them to return to work.

Michael Wall, who presided, told the meeting that the wage scale desired had been presented to the publishers, but that the publishers had declined to treat with the committee. The scale, he said, called for $1.22 an hour for day workers, $1.29 for night workers and $1.36 for the "lobster shift."

Edward Fisher, chairman of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, made the following statement with regard to the walkout:

"From the information received by the board it would appear that the strike of the compositors was unauthorized, and the organization has assumed the obligation of getting the men back to work."

At the office of the board it was said that the word "organization" in this statement referred to the Typographical Union.

The publishers, in a statement last night, said that International Typographical Union officers and the president of the local union had ordered the men back to work, but that the large majority of them had refused to return.

McBride of the Boston local declared the walkout is in violation of the laws of the International Typographical Union and the international arbitration contract and "places in jeopardy the interest of members of our organization employed on newspapers throughout the jurisdiction."

BODY OF LIEUT. J. D. FILLEY WILL ARRIVE THIS EVENING

Funeral of First St. Louis Officer Killed in World War Will Be Held Tomorrow.

The body of First Lieutenant John Dwight Filley Jr., first commissioned officer from St. Louis to be killed in the world war, will arrive here this evening and the funeral will be held tomorrow.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Filley of 40 Westmoreland place, was the first of his family to be killed in the world war, and died two days later at the age of 23.

He had military training at Plattsburg and was one of the first to go overseas, being in M. Company, Twenty-third Infantry, a unit of the regular army.

The Home Guard camp south of Clayton was named Camp Filley in honor of Lieut. Filley, after his death. John D. Filley Sr. is president of the American Manufacturing Co.

Funeral services will be held at the family home at 31 E. Lombard street and burial will be in Bellefontaine cemetery. The interment services will be private. Frank H. Filley, a cousin, is accompanying the body here from Hoboken, N. J., where it arrived on the transport Cambria.

Two other St. Louis soldiers' bodies are expected here soon for burial in National Cemetery, Jefferson Barracks. They are those of David B. Barbee, a bugler in H Company, 138th (St. Louis) Infantry, son of Mrs. Evelyn Shubbach of Tulsa, Ok., a former St. Louisan, and James J. Cusack, Machine Gun Company, 193d Infantry, next of kin, Mrs. Mary Swanson, 9915 Smith avenue. Barbee and Cusack both died of disease. Barbee's mother is at 4551 Lucky street waiting for the arrival of her son's body. The body of Shelley Allen, D Battery, 339th Field Artillery, next of kin, Mrs. Frank A. Kuhn of Willow Springs, Mo., is also to come here for burial at National Cemetery.

MAN AWAITING TRAIN SLAIN, PRESUMABLY BY ROBBERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DEXTER, Mo., June 13.—Dewey Harper, 39 years old, was shot and killed at the railroad station here last night, presumably by robbers. Harper had come to Dexter from his home near Idalia, to procure medicine, and was waiting at the Cotton Belt station for the midnight train home. The extreme heat in the station drove him outside, where he is believed to have been robbed and killed at about 11 o'clock. At the inquest witnesses told of seeing a man running north from the station immediately after a shot was heard, and that another jumped up from the side of the track and joined him. No arrests have been made.

Wants News of Missing Brother.
Mrs. Bert Blackburn of Branson, Mo., is endeavoring to find her brother, Jack Bauers, who disappeared from home about seven years ago and writes the Post-Dispatch to inquire whether any readers have knowledge of him. She says she is ill and anxious to hear of him.

ESTATE OF MRS. MAUDE N. YOUNG LEFT TO BROTHERS AND SISTERS

Share Also to Go to Niece in Trust Providing She Becomes a Member of a Protestant Church.
The will of Mrs. Maude Niedringhaus Young, who died June 2 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Nathaniel B. Randolph, 4268 Pershing avenue, was filed yesterday.

She left her stock in the W. F. Niedringhaus Investment Co. to her brothers and sisters, including Mrs. Randolph, Mrs. Lida West, Mrs. Fred C. Orthwein, Mrs. George Drew, George, Albert W. and Lee Niedringhaus. The residue of the estate goes to the sisters and a niece, Dorothy M. Drew, 12 years old, 20 North King's highway. The share of the niece is left in trust of her uncle, George W. Niedringhaus, until she becomes 25, only the income meanwhile to be used for her benefit.

The decision of the trustee in such matters shall control. At the end of the trust period Miss Drew must have become a member of a Protestant church, denomination not specified, and continue as such to receive absolutely the principal of the trust estate. Should she fail to comply with this condition her share is to be divided among her aunt's surviving sisters. Katie Rourke, for services rendered, is given $500. Mrs. Young, who was 59 years old, was the widow of George L. Young, who died four years ago. Her will was executed Jan. 24, 1915, naming the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. as executor of her estate, the value of which was not stated.

JAPAN REPORTED WILLING FOR U. S. TO CONTROL YAP CABLES

By the Associated Press. LONDON, June 15.—Reuter's learns that, while fully maintaining her rights as mandatory over certain Pacific Islands, Japan is ready to agree to the United States exercising complete control over the American cables traversing the island of Yap to Menado and to Guam and hopes that this plan will be acceptable to Washington.

STORM OF PROTEST AGAINST PROPOSED DUTY ON LUMBER

Congressmen Receive Objections From Lumber Dealers, Farmers, Milk Producers and Others.

From the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Ways and Means Committee of the House—which is framing the new tariff measure promised by the Republican administration, raised a storm which it didn't expect when it decided to recommend a 25 per cent ad valorem duty on dressed lumber. Protests against the proposal are pouring into the offices of Congressmen from business and farming interests and building and trade organizations in all parts of the United States. Prominent among those opposing the duty are the lumber companies whose business the tariff is supposed to benefit.

In Congress, the fight against the tariff is being led by the Minnesota delegation, which plans to bring the matter before a caucus of House Republicans tonight and ask for a definite statement of policy against the proposed levy.

Opponents of the levy declare it would have the double effect of depressing the American timber reserve, by shutting out Canadian lumber, and of raising the cost of home building. It is estimated that imposition of the duty would mean an increase of about $250 to the cost of every $5000 house and a total annual increase in the cost of building operations of at least $200,000,000. In New York State alone, according to a statement by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of that State, the increase to consumers would be $12,500,000.

"Such an increase would make for stagnation in construction," said Fish, "destroying whatever hopes we may have of a revival in this industry."

"The Republicans must not forget what happened after the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich bill in 1909, when the Democrats raised the high cost of living slogan and swept the country."

Among the lumber interests fighting the tariff are the Northwestern Lumber Retailers and Manufacturers, the Western Pine Manufacturers' Association and the National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association.

Long List of Protestants.
For the Northwestern group, Donald D. Conn, its representative in Washington, has filed with the Ways and Means Committee a strong protest backed by petitions from the State Legislatures of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas and Colorado, and from lumber associations and other business organizations throughout the country. In the long list of protestants against the tariff is the Illinois Milk Producers' Association.

"The lumber industry has not asked for this tariff," said Conn. "Neither does it want it. The protests represent the attitude of the American people, both producer and consumer, on this important question."

The Western Pine Manufacturers' Association, whose membership includes many pine mills of Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho, has wired to Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee that the proposed levy is "outrageous" and would make the import of pine lumber from Canada prohibitive.

E. Bruce Hill of Pittsburg, director of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, in a statement given out here, points out that the 25 per cent duty, or from $7 to $10 per 1000 feet, is three to four times the rate on finished lumber contained in the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Drowned Girl's Body Recovered.
The body of Miss Ethel Bennett, 16 years old, of 420 South Fourth street, East St. Louis, who was drowned when swimming Sunday in the Mississippi River at Trendley avenue, East St. Louis, was recovered yesterday about 200 feet from the spot at which she sank. The body came to the surface. George F. Koerner, 25 years old, of East St. Louis also was drowned in endeavoring to rescue Miss Bennett. His body was recovered Sunday.

WOMAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF NEIGHBOR

Admitted She Shot Man After Dispute With His Wife in Which He Interfered.

Mrs. Valeria Brys, 31 years old, of 1007 Cass avenue, a divorcee, was acquitted, by a jury in Judge Landwehr's court yesterday afternoon, of the murder of Paul S. Kalucki, 33, a steamship and real estate agent, who lived in the flat adjoining hers, at 1005 Cass avenue, Nov. 5 last.

The jury returned its verdict after an hour's consideration of the evidence. As the jurors went out, Mrs. Brys and her two daughters, Helen, 14, and Valeria, 11, shook hands with them, thanking them.

The shooting of Kalucki, which was admitted by Mrs. Brys, followed a dispute between her and Mrs. Kalucki, in which the husband had interfered. The chief difference in the testimony of Mrs. Brys, in her own defense, and that of Mrs. Kalucki, for the State, was in details.

The scene of the women's dispute was a rear porch, which was common to the two flats, the screen doors opening on this porch being so close that they overlapped. Mrs. Brys testified that Kalucki, when his wife called him, walked into her kitchen, choked her, slapped her face and beat her. She said she was dazed and made no resistance, but that when Kalucki, after going out, started, as she believed, to return to her flat, she took her revolver and shot him.

Mrs. Kalucki denied that Kalucki entered Mrs. Brys' premises, and said Mrs. Brys shot him as he was near the bottom of the rear stairway. The State pointed to the fact that the bullet entered the top of his head and came out near the base of the brain at the rear.

Police officers testified that there were scratches on Mrs. Brys' face when she was arrested.

AUTO REDUCED TO JUNK BUT DRIVER IS ONLY SLIGHTLY HURT

One Street Car Strikes Machine, Hurling It in Path of Another—Two Other Auto Accidents.

Peter Reichert, 23 years old, of 1717A Shenandoah avenue, escaped with cuts and bruises at 6 p. m. yesterday when an automobile he was driving was reduced to kindling wood and junk when it was crushed between an eastbound and westbound Olive street car at Twenty-third street. The pile of debris was scraped into the gutter in Twenty-third street.

Reichert was driving south in Twenty-third street when an eastbound car struck the machine and threw it onto the westbound track in front of another car. The steering wheel held the wreckage from Reichert's body and prevented him from being crushed.

Glenn Morgan, 4, of 1634A Franklin avenue, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, internal injuries, cuts and bruises when struck by an automobile driven by James Napoli of 812 Wash street on Franklin avenue between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. He was taken to his home.

William A. Kloeckner, 35 years old, of 6785 Hodiarnont avenue, St. Louis County, was cut and bruised when his automobile collided with an automobile driven by Gus Bense, 4414 Cosens avenue, at Florissant and Robin avenues.

MEMBERS OF THE THREE-HANNOVER Post 125, American Legion, will hold a golf tournament at 11 a. m. in the golf club at Cherokee and Texas avenues, in an effort to raise money for the organization. One of the men for whom the post named has offered to purchase the colors for the post.

TOO MANY TAX-LEVYING AGENCIES, LOWDEN SAYS

Former Illinois Governor Calls
"State Aid" and "Federal Aid" Expensive.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Taxation is increasing much more rapidly than wealth itself, Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, declared in a speech yesterday at the University of Chicago."One prolific cause of rapidly increasing cost of government is to be found in the number of public agencies that have authority to levy taxes," he said. There is the Federal Government, the state Government, the local municipal Government and, in some states, the School Board.
When all the taxes are totaled they dangerously approach confiscation in many cases."The local municipality should be required to provide its own revenues for its own needs and should not be given aid by the state," he added.
"The state should be compelled to provide its own funds for purely state needs. Lastly the Federal Government should appropriate only for those interests which are purely of national concern and clearly within the purpose for which the Federal Union was established. No more expensive phrases have been invented in recent years than 'state aid' and 'federal aid.'""Let the proportion of public employees continue to increase as rapidly as they have in late years and we will within a reasonable time witness this phenomenon: Our population divided into two classes, those holding public offices, still a minority, it is true, and all others working to support the minority in office. From that condition to the soviet form of government it is but a single step."Lowden received from the university the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Two Years Ago Announced.

MISS MARY PLANT of St. Louis County this afternoon announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Plant, to Leicester Faust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust of 1 Portland place. No date for the wedding has been set.

Miss Plant was educated at Sacred Heart convent, Miss Wright's School and Bryn Mawr. She was formally presented to society in 1919. In that year she was maid of honor at the Valed Frophet's ball and special maid last year, and has been active in the Junior League.

Mr. Faust is a grandson of the late Adolphus Busch. He received his education at Yale and Washington University, where he is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Social Items

The engagement of Miss Hadley Richardson, daughter of the late Mrs. Florence Wayman Richardson, to Ernest Miller Hemmingway of Chicago was announced yesterday at a tea with which Mrs. George J. Breaker of 5227 Westminster place entertained at her home. The wedding probably will take place in the fall. Miss Richardson is the sister of Mrs. Roland G. Usher. She received her education at Mary Institute and Bryn Mawr, and made an informal debut a few years ago. Mr. Hemmingway is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hemmingway of Oak

Miss Helen Dorothy Barron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Price Barron of 1246 Amherst place, will become the bride of George Kohlberg Jr., son of George Kohlberg of 3952 Arsenal street, at 8 o'clock this evening. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. An out-of-town wedding of unusual interest in St. Louis was that of Miss Katherine Dameron, daughter of Mrs. Edward C. Dameron of Clarksville, and William Weakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weakley of St. Joseph. The ceremony was performed today at noon at "Falcon," the home of the bride's mother, in the presence of members of the immediate families. The bride was given away by her uncle, Milton Tootle of St. Joseph. Because of the ill health of Mrs. Dameron there were no attendants and no guests from St. Louis except Mrs. Theron Catlin, the bride's sister. The bride's gown was of ivory bridal satin trimmed with quantities of rose point lace which belonged to her grandmother. Plumes of the lace draped the skirt and the veil was entirely of lace, arranged in cap effect and falling the full length of the train. The couple will reside at "Falcon."

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth L. Wagenbreth, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wagenbreth, to Irvin King Owen, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Owen of 8426 Hall's Ferry road, was announced today at a house party with which Miss Charlotte Briner of 17 Aberdeen place entertained at "Renirb," the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Briner. No date for the wedding has been set. Miss Wagenbreth was educated at the St. Louis Library School and the University of Wisconsin. For the last year she has been attending Washington University and has resided at McMillan Hall. She is a member of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Mr. Owen will graduate next year from the Missouri School of Mines, where he is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He served with the 128th Field Artillery during the war.

Miss Josephine Griesedick, daughter of Mrs. Margretha M. Griesedick of 1367 Goodfellow avenue, has chosen June 23 as the date of her marriage to August Kern Jr., son of Mrs. August Kern of 3127 Lackland avenue. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Father John McGlynn at St. Rose's Church at 9 o'clock in the morning, and will be followed by a wedding breakfast at the Riverview Club. Miss Marie Fox and Raymond J. Wille will be the only attendants. After a honeymoon trip in the West the couple will reside at 3127 Lackland avenue.

Helps make rich, red blood

WEAK NERVES AND THIN BLOOD

RUN HEALTH OF THOUSANDS WITH-

TRUE CAUSE OF THEIR TROUBLE—IRON STARVATION.

An enormous number of people who ought to be strong, vigorous and in the prime of life are constantly complaining of weak nerves, headaches, pains across the back, disturbed digestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, a general "run-down" condition, melancholy, bad memory, etc., all as a result of iron starvation of the blood.
There are 50,000,000,000,000 red blood corpuscles in your blood, and each one must have iron. Without iron your blood does not get the full strength out of it, and as a consequence you become physically weakened both in body and mind.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Luxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.
Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Luxated Iron. It will not injure the stomach or disturb the stomach, because it is organic iron, like the iron in plants and animals, and not metallic iron which people usually take. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not get complete results.

RAIN CAN'T PLAY HOB WITH "FRA DIAVOLO"

Showers Halt Production for Half Hour, Then Notable Performance Is Given.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

ANOTHER impressive instance of community gusto in high-grade entertainment was exhibited last night at the municipal theater in Forest Park, during the opening performance of Auber's "Fra Diavolo." About 2000 persons braved certain auguries of rain, which, just as the orchestra completed the overture, were realized in a driving downpour. The gathering retreated to the shelters and there, with few exceptions, remained steadfast, in a trial of pertinity with the elements.
The test endured more than half an hour and then victory went to the mass will. The freshest wore itself out, and between the last drops the enthusiastic flocked back to their drenched seats, waterproofed them with newspapers and programs, and cried out for the performance to go on. And so it did, without further interruption, to the end of the work.
The reward was a production which, making allowance for exasperated spirits in the company and a stage as slippery as a skating rink, was distinguished for several notable features. First was the capital feat of character creation achieved by James Stevens as the brigand chief-lain, Fra Diavolo—an impersonation gallant, debonair and noble, strikingly acted and adorned with splendid singing. His would have been the unquestioned laurels of the performance had not Frank Moulan embellished the small part of Beppo, a comedy bandit, with a grappling artistry.

Score Difficult and Tricky.
Here was another of those remarkably finished "first night" performances with which this summer's troupe seems to be proving that, by means of heroic exertions, it is possible to combine the versatile repertory of a stock company with the routine competence of a cast which plays the same work all season. So far as could be detected, not a cue was missed. And this is no suave and facile score, like that of "The Chocolate Soldier." It is difficult and it is extremely tricky.
The big chorus, predominantly of St. Louisans, again indicated its promise of becoming the bright particular glory of this year's municipal opera. The treacherous footing, of course, impeded their velocity and precision of its evolutions, but its singing of the magnificent ensemble numbers was a joy to hear, such was its volume, its clear, youthful keenness of quality, and its poise of training.

The work itself, in technique and virtuosity, is by all means the highest of standard as yet attempted in the three seasons of municipal opera. Every bar, every detail of orchestration, bears witness to a master's pen. Based on the dance, rather than the ballad, the music sparkles and flashes incessantly with those brilliant, sparkling, and rhythm which only the French esprit has created; and it is gaily, spontaneously tuneful. The story needs no repetition here, save to remark that the libretto is unusually opulent in comedy.

The First Act's Panorama.
With the lifting of the barrage of dazzling lights which serve as a curtain, the first act disclosed another of these panoramic effects of pageantry which form the very genius of the municipal theater. Back of the towering sentinel oaks spread a bluff of rocky crags, in the crannies of which, and on the stage itself, were grouped nearly 100 people, kaleidoscopic in costumes of farabians and Italian peasants.

The second setting was interesting as the smallest ever used at the municipal theater. It was a bedroom in an inn, and the tiny apartment was placed at the front center, with hedges of greenery on either side cutting off the remainder of the stage. Here Miss Katherine Galloway, as the heroine, Zerlina, did a disarming act which paused only at the moment when the audience began to catch its breath.
The third setting was the same as the first, and repeated its multitudinous grouping of the entire cast.
Here Moulan and his fellow monster, Charles E. Gallagher, did a burlesque of the bedroom scene with a humor for a mirror; and spelled out a letter from their chief with at illiterate imbecility which convulsed the audience.

Here also Moulan, having been compelled to betray Fra Diavolo, gave a moment's exhibition of grief and dog-like fidelity so poignant, so complete in every facial expression and pose, as to prove his mastery of tragedy as well as comedy. Here, too, Stevens made what was surely the most tremendous stage-fall in history; slain with a revolver, he tumbled down the crags from their summit and went sprawling to the very footlights.

Interpolations Injudicious.
All of the parts were acted and sung with professional competence.
Harry Herman was Lord Alcazar, a British tourist grumbling his way through foreign lands, and Milton Rogers was his silly and flirtatious spouse, Lady Pamela. J. Humbird Duffey was the melancholy captain of dragons, Lorenzo, and Ralph Nicholls left his duties as assistant stage director to play the innkeeper, Matteo. The executives responsible for the evening's success were Frank Moulanville, musical director; Fred A. Bishop, stage director, and William A. Carson, director of the chorus.

In concluding, one cannot but regret two interpolations, which, without being offensive like certain liberties of the kind taken last year, seemed at least injudicious. Instead of his barcarolle in the second act, Faye, which served well enough to Stevens introduced a ditty called show off his voice, but which was "Tell Her I Love Her So," by P. de out of character with the score.

Still more unfortunate, in the writer's opinion, was the injection of the AMERICAN WOMAN ARTIST

EXHIBITS WORK IN LONDON

Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, June 11.—Miss Matilda Henderson of the Carnegie Hall studio in New York recently opened an exhibition of paintings in the Walker Galleries in New Bond street which called forth considerable admiration from critics. The majority of the paintings are of still life, many portraying Chinese objects of art and brilliant flowers. Earlier canvases show that the artist was under the influence of the great still life painter, Chardin, while later pictures reflect modern influence.

COURTESY SERVICE

SALARY DISPUTE TO GO TO LEGISLATURE

State Officials Unable to Decide on Pay as Capitol Board Members.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 15.—Gov. Hyde will submit to the special session of the Legislature, now in progress, the question of fixing salaries for members of the Board of the Permanent Seat of Government, as a result of a free-for-all exchange, which occurred in a meeting of the board Monday afternoon. Members of the board in the past have fixed their own salary, by board action.

"I shall explain in seven languages why I am submitting the proposition," the Governor said, but refused to discuss further the events at the board meeting, which are expected to have far-reaching consequences in the trend of the present administration, marking the division of the elective State officials into two distinct camps.

Members of the board, who now include the Governor, Secretary of State Becker, Auditor Hackmann, Treasurer Thompson and Attorney General Barrett, formerly for a number of years have been paid $750 a year each as board members, voting that sum to themselves out of a salary appropriation to the board by the Legislature.

In addition to Regular Pay, the pay which members of the board have received in the past is in addition to their regular salaries. The Governor receives $5000 a year, and the others $5000 each. $5000 appropriation of the board included an item of $7500 for salaries, which was a $1500 each per year for the five members for the biennial period. The recent Legislature appropriated $124,500 for the board and according to Auditor Hackmann intended $15,000 of the total to be applied to salaries, which would be at the rate of $1500 a year, or double the former salaries.

The Appropriation Committee lumped the entire appropriation, however, under one item, "contingent expenses," which made it necessary for members of the board to vote to themselves whatever salary they chose.

According to the best accounts available, three members of the board, Hackmann, Thompson and Becker, decided that a meeting should be called and the salary matter taken up.

Gov. Hyde called a meeting of the board in his office. Accounts of the gathering differ in some of the smaller details, and the Governor declined to discuss the affair. It is reported, however, that after a motion had been made by one of three, seconded by another of that number, that the members of the board should receive $1500 a year each for the present biennial period, Hyde did not particularly warm to the idea, nor did Barrett.

Cites Lloyd Appropriation.

Becker is said then to have called Gov. Hyde's attention to the fact that he had permitted to stand an appropriation of $3600 for expenses for Lieutenant-Governor Lloyd, as compared with $2400 in former biennial periods, and to have declared that there is no constitutional authority for expense accounts for Lieutenant-Governors of Missouri except when acting as Governor. The Governor was reminded that he had vetoed an item of $3500 for the printing commission, comprising Hackmann, Thompson and Becker, but that only last Saturday the Governor's secretary, T. N. Orniston, had submitted to Becker a bill to create a printing commissioner, a new job at $3600 a year.

Hackmann then left the room to get some information about Lloyd's vouchers, and while he was gone Barrett suggested that the salary question could be settled by asking the Governor to submit to the Legislature a measure fixing the salary of members of the board. Hackmann returned about that time with a demand, "Let's vote," but was informed of the new turn of things. He is said to have turned to the Governor with the inquiry, "What assurance have we got that you would not veto the bill if the Legislature passed it?" receiving only a smile in return.

Barrett Resolution Adopted.

next to "Lucia" as a finale for the second act. The words, of course, have not the slightest bearing on the story of "Fra Diavolo," and the music is also out of character. Auber himself has provided a perfectly good finale, a septet, with the added merit that it would have utilized the voice of Frank Moulan, in addition to those of Miss Galloway, Miss Rogers, Stevens, Hermen, Duffey and Gallagher. It has often been noted in light opera singers that they are afflicted with a complex for trying their throats on Donizetti's celebrated grand opera number.

Another point is that, if Stevens made some attempt at resistance or escape, the killing of Fra Diavolo would not seem so repellently like sheer assassination, as it appeared last night. Another is that, so far as last night's audience could tell, the opera closed without a reconciliation between Zerlina and Lorenzo—without even the conventional embrace with the lovers in musical comedy, as the curtain falls, indicate their hope of living happily ever after.

Are You as Well as You Should Be?

It isn't right for one to always feel tired, weak—all worn out! Yet how many folks are always ailing, but seldom sick enough to be in bed? Are you one of these unfortunate? Do you suffer daily backache and stabbing pains—feel old and stiff; worn out and dispirited? You shouldn't! June is too fine a month to be so miserable. You want to be well and the best way to get well is to find out what is making you feel so badly.

You should look, then, to your kidneys. Your kidneys are the blood filters. Without them you could not live a single day. It's little wonder, then, that when the kidneys fall behind you suffer constant backache, rheumatic pains and kindred irregularities; that your head aches, you are tired, dizzy, nervous and depressed.

But don't worry! Just take things easier for a while and help the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have brought new health and strength to thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These St. Louis people speak:

Mrs. E. B. Silvernail, 4103 Garfield av., says: "I had an attack of kidney trouble and my back nearly killed me with pain. I could hardly get about to do my housework. I was feeling miserable and run down and would get dizzy when I would stop over. As my mother had used Doan's Kidney Pills with benefit I was led to try them and it didn't take them long to cure me. Since then I have never been bothered."

A. Cunningham, 2820 Eads av., says: "My kidneys were disordered. I also had a heavy feeling across my back. A fellow-workman who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results advised me to try them. I am glad I did, for I had hardly used one box when my kidneys acted normal again. I know Doan's are a good reliable remedy and I can recommend them to anyone."

SUIT TO RECOVER $6322 INVESTED IN OIL STOCK FILED

H. C. Grenner Alleges W. A. Meletio and Others Inflated Values of Texas Drilling Company's Shares

Henry C. Grenner, president of the Automobile Gasoline Co. and former Collector of Internal Revenue, today filed suit in Circuit Court to recover $6322 he invested in oil stock from W. A. Meletio, president of the Meletio Sea Food Co., and others, charging inflation of values in the stock by false statements as to the business of the company.

Others, who invested approximately $13,000, are named as intervenors in the suit and it is stated in the petition that the total amount of stock sold was $300,000.

The company is the United Drilling and Development Co. of Wichita Falls, Tex. The defendants named with Meletio are D. A. Kitson, Michael Pashos, George Constant, John L. Nelson and George Georges, proprietor of the Standard Catering Co. The petition declares that the defendant conspired to sell shares in the company at an inflated value and to create a fictitious market for the stock.

It is declared that Meletio and Kitson combined to organize a trust estate for the sale of stock in July, 1919, and that Pashos and Constant were "phantom tools of the other two." It declared that a declaration of trust for $100,000 was filed in Wichita Falls and that this illegally was increased to $1,000,000.

The petition asserts that Meletio was the chief beneficiary of the inflated value of the stock and that he and Kitson received more than $39,000 of the funds of the trust estate. They also made representations, it is alleged, that the company had nine wells, producing 4000 barrels of oil a day, and that its cash in bank was $117,157, whereas it in reality was $17,157.

It is declared that the defendants used about $300,000 of the money obtained from the sale of stock to buy real estate in St. Louis County. The prayer of the petition is recovery of money invested and the appointment of a trustee.

REINSTATEMENT OF MISS HESSE DEFEATED BY 5 TO 5 VOTE

Two Members Absent When Matter Is Brought Before Board of Education.

A resolution directing Acting Superintendent of Instruction Maddox to recommend the reinstatement of Miss Rosa Hesse to the teaching corps of the public schools was defeated in the Board of Education last night by a tie vote, five members voting for the resolution and five opposing it. Two members were absent.

As is known, Miss Hesse was dismissed from the service at the meeting of the board a month ago on charges preferred by Christopher W. Johnson, a board member, of wilfully circulating false statements concerning his character during the recent School Board elections. Miss Hesse had been an instructor in the schools for 31 years and was head assistant at the Franz Sigel School and president of the Grade School Teachers' Association.

Johnson last night voted against the resolution for Miss Hesse's reinstatement, making no comment on his vote. Others who voted against the resolution were Mrs. Catherine I. Bush, only woman member of the board; Benjamin Stromberg, W. Palmer Clarkson, who was a classmate of Miss Hesse in high school, and President Rosekopf.

Those voting for the resolution were John C. Tobin, Stephen M. Wagner, Richard Murphy, Joseph Joering and Dr. Henry Gettys, who introduced the measure. Dr. Henry L. Wolfner and Jesse McDonald were the members absent.

Announcement of a contribution of $5000 by G. A. Buder, president of the company publishing the St. Louis Times, for equipping a public library in connection with the Susan R. Buder School, named for Buder's mother, was made by Wagner. The latter said Buder had informed him he would assume the entire expense of equipping and conducting the branch library.

$1000 PULITZER PRIZE

FOR VOLUME OF VERSE Award, to Be Made Annually, Added to List of School of Journalism in New York.

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 15.—A prize of $1000 for the best volume of verse published during the year by an American author will be added to the list of prizes awarded annually by the Columbia University School of Journalism, Pulitzer Foundation.
This is in addition to the other prizes offered for the best American novel and the best American play of the year.

The advisory board of the School of Journalism has decided to discontinue the prize for the best and most suggestive paper on the future development and improvement of the School of Journalism. Instead, a prize of $500 is instituted for the best cartoon published during the year.

The new awards, like the others, will be made annually as prizes in journalism after nominations by juries chosen from members of the administrative board of the School of Journalism and from the teaching staff of the school. The Pulitzer prizes are attracting greater public attention each year and evidence increases that the stimulus to higher efforts in American Journalism and letters, as fostered by Mr. Pulitzer, will be brought out.

Besides the prizes already announced, traveling scholarships of $1500 each have been awarded to the following graduates of the School of Journalism: Edward Harrison Collins, Brooklyn; Martha Francis Dewey, Petersburg, Va.; Girard Chaput, Holyoke, Mass.

The winners were nominated by the teaching staff of the School of Journalism. The conditions of the awards were that they "shall have passed their examinations with the highest honor and are otherwise most deserving to enable each of them to spend a year in Europe to study the social, political and moral conditions of the people and the character and principles of the European press."

of Journalism is made up as follows: Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia University, New York City; Solomon B. Griffin, Springfield (Mass.) Republican; John Langdon Heaton, the World, New York; Arthur M. Howe, Brooklyn Daily Eagle; Victor Fremont Lawson, Chicago Daily News; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, Boston Herald; Charles Ransom Miller, New York Times; Edward Page Mitchell, New York Herald; Joseph Pulitzer Jr., St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Ralph Pulitzer, the World, New York; Melville Ellijah Stone, the Associated Press; Charles H. Taylor, Boston Daily Globe, and Samuel Calvin Wells, Philadelphia.

Just Like a Man

"My husband suffered for several years with stomach trouble. He often had colic attacks that put him to bed. But a man can't stand the pains that a woman can. He thought he was going to die, and the doctors didn't seem to help him any. Like a drowning man grasping for a straw, he cried, 'Mary, Wonderful Remedy, which a nurse told me about, and now he is entirely well and eats anything.' It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, causes practically all stomach and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money

This tooth paste makes your mouth water

THERE'S a lot of good in having your "mouth water." It means that saliva is being supplied to digest your food and preserve your teeth.

LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

makes your mouth water. It is an acid tooth paste: made so with a mild fruit acid.

When you clean your teeth with Lis-terine Tooth Paste you feel at once the increased flow of saliva, which is Nature's preserver for the teeth.

While your mouth is fresh from this flow of healthful saliva, try putting on your tongue a touch of baking soda. Instantly everything stops: dries up; showing that an alkaline tooth paste prevents Nature's processes.

An acid tooth paste is best.

Ice Cream

THE most important fact about our ice cream is not its delicious, natural-fruit flavor; not its velvety smoothness; not even its nutritious fourteen per cent. of butter fat. Its biggest merit is that it is SAFE ice cream, made from perfectly pasteurized cream, under the most improved sanitary precautions. You can give it to your children with the utmost confidence!

Professor E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins, declares: "Ice cream is one of the most attractive forms in which to use milk... on account of its palatability."

Mississippi Senator Points to the Delay in Peace Treaty Meant to Make "Right Off the Reel."

"BABIES MIXED UP,"
WILLIAMS LAUGHS

Reference to Division Over Resolutions Followed by Attack for Failure to Reduce the Taxes.

On Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 15.—Senate Democrats yesterday launched a broadside against Republican claims of achievement during the first three months of Harding's administration.
Led by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who held the floor for more than an hour, with a characteristic speech bristling with satire and invective, the movement bore all the aspects of a concerted attempt to precipitate a general political debate, but the Republicans declined the challenge and made no reply.
On President Harding, Senator Harrison's attack was frontal, as he elaborated the Republicans over passage of the Emergency Tariff Bill, which he characterized as an "utter violation of party pledges." In its inception and "an admitted failure" in enactment. He taunted them over their difficulties "in the little job of passing a resolution of peace" with Germany, concerning which he thrust at Senators Lodge and Knox, the Republican Senate spokesmen on foreign affairs.
He chided them for alleged failure to get together with the President to reduce taxation.
President Harding, he asserted, "invited tariff lobbyists for conference" to Washington.
Administration appointments, including those of Gov. Bone of Alabama and Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, he held up to scorn, winding up with the satirical reference to Gen. Sawyer, the President's personal physician.
Lashes at Republicans.
Speaking from the center of a group of Democratic Senators, and pinning his backs with question and suggestion, he lashed out by name at Republican Senators, who refused to be stung into retort.
Only once, Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, interrupted. "Because there is so much laughter on the Democratic side, I cannot hear the jokes."
"Strange political acrobatic performances," they were exhibiting, Senator Harrison told them, reminding them that "the distinguished Senator from Washington, Mr. Poindexter, in charge of the naval bill, came away from the White House with slowness on his face" because President Harding could not sustain the Borah resolution for naval disarmament.
"And then, like a clap of thunder over the ears," he added, pointing to the Republican ranks, "changed right around."
"You promised to establish peace right off the reel," he told them.
"Yet your simple little resolution is not passed yet. The Senate resolution, framed by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, supported by your majority leader, Senator Lodge, whose name is a household word, is demolished in the House. They have offered you an insult, and it is said the House resolution, not the Senate, has President Harding's favor."
"Yes," chuckled John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, "they have mixed the babies up."
The emergency agricultural tariff, which was offered to "raise the cost of everything on the workingman's table," Senator Harrison said, had done "no good to the farmers of the country, though you could not let us take the tariff off the things the farmer has to buy."
"You pass a resolution by Senator Lamont (Republican, Wisconsin) to investigate agricultural conditions, looking for something to relieve the farmers," he continued, "admitting the tariff cannot bring the goods.
An agricultural bloc of Senators and Representatives keeps meeting constantly here trying to do something for the farmers of the country, because they know they are in distress."
"The People Will Find Out," Senator Gerry, Democrat, Rhode Island, interrupted to read a statement by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, that taxes might be increased.
"Oh, the people will find out sooner or later," Senator Harrison re-ing money fast. Another is proprietor of a New York hotel, a small but respectable one. One was a man Henry Ford picked out when he visited the prison. He was sergeant-at-arms on the occasion of Ford's visit and Ford was impressed with the way in which he handled the audience. Ford made the first and possibly the only speech he ever made in his life to those prisoners. The man Ford picked out had been one of the boldest and most unscrupulous of New York's gunmen, and was a dope peddler. After he came to Sing Sing and became chief of police he entirely reformed the prison of dope—a most remarkable achievement. Ford picked him in the action that was stayed until a better position was offered him.

"I could go on endlessly, but the essence of the league is expressed in the statement of one Sing Sing man on the day of his discharge. 'Warden,' he said, 'you've got them right discussing the difference between right and wrong from one end of the prison to the other. You see, the league had placed upon them the necessity of determining for themselves what was right and wrong. When you set men to considering what is wrong and what is right, you've solved the problem.'
Prison a Hospital for Criminals.
"The prison of today is pictured in Galsworthy's 'Justice.' The crux of that play is the appeal of the attorney of the weak young central figure in the action that is a weakling and that commitment to prison would ruin him. Did you ever hear it said that commitment to a hospital would ruin anyone, yet a prison is nothing but a hospital for the cure of crime. I never make a rule that cannot be broken. No rule ever fit all individuals. I always consider the individual. If the exception is good for one man, why not for a dozen men? Any administrative officer's worth is dependent only on how judiciously and wisely he can make exceptions to rules. Executive ability is not the ability to enforce a rule, it is the ability to set aside a rule." Osborne recited two other experiences as sidelights on the effect of the league upon prisoners. "I was informed on one occasion that four men had planned an attempt at escape on a certain night. I called the body of prisoners together and told them of my information. That was all. I proceeded to forget it. I took no precautions to prevent the escape.
The attempt was not made. I left the case in the hands of the men themselves."
Five Witnesses Against Him.
"When I was indicted on charges of perjury and a 'misdemeanor' that set forth five felonies, the District Attorney sought witnesses against me among the 1600 prisoners of Sing Sing. He was well armed to get his desired testimony. He had the power to threaten persecution on the outside if the convicts would not testify, and he had power to promise pardon if they did. He got five witnesses against me among 1600 men.
He did not get a single one of 22 men who had been severely punished by me for practices of which they had admitted their guilt. As Osborne also stated that Dr. Barnhouse and an employee of his office submitted expense accounts of $24 each for rooms at Hotel Jefferson in St. Louis in October, 1920, and that an investigation by the St. Louis Police Department resulted in information that they were not registered at the hotel at that time.
Several weeks ago the Governor appointed George Wagner, of Jefferson City, a member of the Republican State Committee to succeed Barnhouse on the theory that Barn-house's term had expired. Barnhouse contends he is entitled to hold the office for two years. It is the understanding that within a few days the Governor will prefer charges against Barnhouse to remove him from office, as Bradshaw was removed.

Gov. Hyde last night issued a statement on the referendum petitions, referring to a vote of the State in November, 1922, on administrative departmental consolidation bills passed at the regular session of the Legislature. The petitions are scheduled to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State Saturday by Thomas H. Fisher, secretary of the Democratic State Committee.
Defending the legislation, the Governor said the expense of conducting the Departments of Agriculture, Public Welfare and Labor under the consolidation bills would be $48,510 less than under the system of separated departments. He made no estimate on the difference in costs of operating other departments.
He said that heads of departments, all Democrats, had assessed their employees to meet the expense of circulating the referendum petitions.
The expense to the State in increased cost of operation of the departments because of the suspension of the bills under the referendum, he said, would be $48,510, and that in addition the cost of printing at the election would be increased of $144,070, making a total estimate of $632,580 that the referendum will cost.
Statement Assails Bradshaw.
The statement accuses James T.
Bradshaw, who was ousted from the office of State Warehouse Commissioner by the Governor Monday, of Dr. E. L. Barnhouse, Food and Drug Commissioner, with having been the leading spirits in the referendum campaign, and sets out specific charges against them. Bradshaw was accused of being part of those charges upon which he was removed, and which have been published.
As to Dr. Barnhouse, the Governor's statement is that Barnhouse has placed on the payroll John P. Leahy, a St. Louis lawyer, as a "helper" at $2400 a year, and that the State pays Leahy's office rent of $900 a year.
The Governor also stated that Dr. Barn-house's assistants in St. Louis are inattentive to duties, that Barnhouse has used State-paid employees in his department to promote a "side business," which is the sale of egg handling certificates, which under the law must be placed on all egg cases.
Charges of "Sideline."
The Governor stated that Barnhouse sells the certificates to egg dealers at 40 cents per 100, or $2.50 per 1000, and that their actual cost is less than 10 cents per 100.
The Governor also stated that Dr. Barn-
submitted expense accounts of $24
each for rooms at Hotel Jefferson in St. Louis in October, 1920, and that
Police Department resulted in in-
tered at the hotel at that time.
appointed George Wagner, of Jefferson City, a member of the Republican State Committee to succeed Barnhouse on the theory that Barn-
house's term had expired. Barn-
understanding that within a few

PHARI, Headquarters of Mount Everest Expedition, Via Simla, June 14.—We left Gnatong, the last village in Sikkim, in a pouring rain and were not sorry to leave it, as in the mist and cold rain it looked depressing. We had no view on the way up to the pass, for the rain came down steadily and the hillsides were veiled in mist. We gained, however, occasional glimpses of a gully with pink or yellow rhododendrons now only five feet high. Some of the pink ones were a most beautiful shade. Also some six or seven different varieties of primulas were passed on the way, the commonest of a reddish-purple color, growing in the greatest profusion everywhere.
The climb to the top of the pass, 14,390 feet, was not very steep. Near the top there were still many patches of last winter's snow. A big heap of stones marked the summit of the pass and the Sikkim Tibet frontier.
A few sticks with pieces of string to which were attached prayer-covered rags, fluttered in the strong wind ever blowing here. With the cold rain it was not a cheerful spot to linger in, so we hurried down the steep, stony path.
First Blue Skies in Weeks.
After descending a few hundred feet we got out of the mist and rain with finer weather we got glimpses of real blue skies, unusually for weeks. The mountain range we had just passed over stops most of the monsoon driven from the plains of India, with the result that the rain-fall in the Chumbi Valley, which we were now entering, is but a quarter of that on the other side of the hills.
The descent to the Chumbi Valley is very steep, more than 5000 feet from the top of the pass. The beauty of the valley and the flowers compensated for the execrable, stony path. The vegetation was now much more European in character. The rhododendrons, including a magnificent great pink one which at its best grew under the shade of dark fir trees, besides yellow, white, red and orange rhododendrons appearing amid the delicate new green of birch and willow, fine white clematis, pink and white spiraea, light blue and dark purple iris and white and red roses growing in masses.
The path along the side of the valley which we came down was nearly deserted. Now we passed an old Chinese custom house and ruined wall and came to the rich, fertile Chumbi Valley, where the broad fields were filled with potatoes and ripening barley. The houses are all well built, mostly of stone and pearl do well, barley, buckwheat and potatoes grow in great quantities and the many colors in which they are painted.
Fine Crops at 9400 Feet.
Passing through many prosperous villages we came to Yatung, where the British trade agent, Mr. McDonald, lives, and the Indian Government has a small detachment of 25 men. We rested a day here, as the last march was trying—more than 21 miles. Some of the coolies were unable to do it in one day. Yatung lies at a height of 9400 feet and is really a delightful spot. Apples and pears do well, barley, buckwheat and potatoes grow in great quantities and the air is scented with many wild roses.
The villages all look extremely prosperous and an air of contentment seems to permeate the valley, far remote from strikes and the other amenities which modern civilization brings in its train.
From Yatung we took on fresh mules which made nothing of the two days' march up to Phari through a pretty valley all the way.
After five miles we turned aside to visit the Galinka monastery. It is in the flourishing village of Galinka, quite near a building containing a great gilt image of Buddha. The decorations of the walls are as yet unfinished. Those that were consisted of wonderful paintings illustrating the life of Buddha. There was also a great prayer wheel, 12 feet high and was painted and leather covered and 4 to 6 feet in diameter. Outside it carried for inscription the usual formula: "Om, Mane Padme Om." Each complete revolution of the wheel rang a bell and the head Lama told me that inside the wheel was a statue of Buddha, and each time the wheel turned they went up to heaven. We turned the wheel several times, trusting the prayers might be efficacious.
Great Trade in Buddha Images.
The monks also did a great trade in little clay images of Buddha, beautifully molded from a brass mold, which had come down from Shigatse.
A short distance further on we crossed the river and rode up a rocky spur to the Donka monastery, delightfully situated and commanding beautiful views up and down the valley. I hoped to see Geshe Rinpoche here, an old friend I had met at the hot springs of Khambre, a year before, a man of great learning and highly venerated throughout this part of the world. Unfortunately he was away at Lhasa. The main temple was dark. It contained 108 volumes of Tankyus besides various images of Buddha.
To the left was a sanctuary of oracles, whence the most famous Lama gives out oracles. Unfortunately, he, too, was away taking the waters at Khambre, but his yellow robes and great silver head-piece, adorned with silver skulls, his bow and arrow, and the great Trident, were all laid out on the throne whence the oracles are given out.
He is considered far and wide and his oracles have a great reputation for truth. We were then taken up the stairs to the veranda of Geshe Rin-poche's private room and given tea made with salt and butter and served in agate cups with beautifully chased silver covers.
After leaving we had a pleasant two-mile gallop across the Lingka-matan plains to where the valley chartered against the force of wind in a few miles of Phari. We rode alongside the rushing torrent Am-mochu through the loveliest woods of fir, birch and juniper mixed up with rhododendrons of all colors and hues. Here were the finest specimens of birch I ever came across.
Grand, rugged old trees matched the rugged scenery of the gorge.
Finally, as we approached Phari, we left behind all trees and shrubs except dwarf rhododendrons only four or five inches high, whose purple flowers on the hillside at a distance strongly resembled heather.
Strange to say when, at a height of more than 14,000 feet, we passed cuckoo busily calling away on a telegraph wire. Phari itself lies at a height of 14,300 feet, consisting of stone surrounded by the dirtiest village built on soda. Cuckoos actually were building nests in these houses. Towering Phari is the wonderful peak of the Chomolhari Mountain, a wonderful sight at all times.
Hence we begin to enter the real Tibetan country, a country of broad plains and rolling downs with views extending over a couple of hundred miles.

Dempsey's Training and Fighting Show He's Not a Rushing Battler Deliberate and Cautious at the Start of All His Big Bouts, He Studies His Man and Bides His Time; Even in Practice He Follows This System—"Jack a Bigger Leonard," Cross Says.

By Robert Edgren.

(Copyright, 1921.) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 15.—Jack Dempsey is still heavy—196 pounds today—but he is no heavier than at Toledo three weeks before the Willard fight.

There he weighed for the newspaper men, in tight and shoes, and unless he had lead insoles or something, his weight was 202 pounds, or about 198 stripped. At Toledo the weight went off too fast, and especially during the week before the fight when he dropped about 10 pounds.

Dempsey was extremely nervous for a couple of days before the fight, and this was probably caused by dropping too much weight by hard work in the intense heat. He'll have no such heat to affect his final two weeks of training at Atlantic City, where there's always some air stirring and usually a breeze from the sea.

Nerve tension before a fight or any other important athletic event isn't a bad sign. It's more the mark of the thoroughbred. A phlegmatic, unexcitable athlete never breaks records. The man who is a bundle of nerves before a contest and who has these nerves under control when he steps out to do his stunt, whatever it is, is the man who can leap out of the commonplace in action.

This is Dempsey. He shows a trace of nervousness right up to within a few minutes of the bell. He is on edge when he enters the ring. He is pale. Then, as he sits in his corner, his color comes back with a rush. He is very grim and determined, silent. He doesn't even shuffle his feet or move his hands, and he doesn't look around over the crowd.

Dempsey Not a Rusher.

His attention is fixed on the man he is going to meet, and his mind filled with the thought of what he is to do in the first clash. You would expect a rushing, aggressive fighter like Dempsey to tear out of his corner, McGovern style, and start slugging with a rush. But that's the thing he never does.

Take two of his most important fights—with Fulton and Willard. In the Fulton fight he stepped slowly from his corner, three or four steps, and stood waiting for Fulton to cross the ring and come to him. Fulton came, carefully, and as Dempsey didn't move Fulton jabbed him swiftly and grasped at Dempsey's arms to hold them down at his sides.

Madame Carpentier Is Sure Georges Will Win

(Copyright, 1921.)

PARIS, June 15.—Mme. Georges Carpentier is certain her husband will defeat Jack Dempsey. She said so to the Post-Dispatch correspondent yesterday in her pretty apartment in this city and gave as her reason the letters she receives each day from her husband, in which he announces his own confidence in the result of the meeting.

"Georges writes he is full of vim, and when it is that way it shows his morale is good," said Mme. Carpentier. "If his morale is good, I have no doubt of the result. However, on the night of the fight I shall not sleep until I know Georges is champion of the world."

Mme. Carpentier said she had wished to accompany her husband to America, but the birth of the baby made that impossible. "So I have to content myself with writing to him every day," she said, smiling.

According to the way his opponent moves, and is perfecting a new method that Carpentier won't know anything about and that will offset Carpentier's trick of playing for an opening and putting everything in a drive intended for a one-punch knockout.

Dempsey has an advantage at his training camp. He doesn't need to work in the open-air arena unless he wants to. He has the big hanger for an airy, roomy gymnasium and he can lock it against all spectators.

"Dempsey in a Class By Himself." Leach Cross thinks it doesn't make any difference how good Carpentier is. I met Leach today. He is training for a series of fights that he hopes will take him up near the championship. Cross has been a very close student of fighting. Whenever he sees a boxer he may meet sometime, he goes home and writes his impressions of the best way to fight him.

"Listen," said Leach. "In training I have boxed with Mike Gibbons, Billy Papke, Stanley Ketchel, Joe Jeannette, Tom Gibbons, Carl Morris, Harry Willis, Marty Farrell and a hundred others, and Jack Dempsey. There never was a man who had anything on Dempsey. You've written that he is a big Terry McGovern. I disagree with you on that. McGovern never had any boxing skill. He put his head down and rushed in and he was a fast, hard hitter."

"Dempsey isn't a big Terry McGovern. He's a big Benny Leonard. Box? Say, he keeps moving like this all the time, doesn't he?" Here Leach crouched and shifted his feet around and awayed his head while his hands waved swiftly.

"That's boxing, isn't it? Dempsey has his own style. He's a master boxer as well as the hardest hitter I ever saw, and as game a man as ever fought. I don't think a man living has a chance to beat him or to stay the limit with him."

Edgren Favored By Georges and Jack as Referee

Principals in Title Bout Both Want Man Originally Named in Agreement.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The referee question is threatening the smooth progress of arrangements for the Carpentier-Dempsey battle. Jack Kearns, Jack Dempsey's manager, has told Tex Rickard, promoter of the fight, he will not let his principal go into a ring if the referee is not satisfactory to him. All he wants, Kearns says, is an even break; but he has a million-dollar asset in Dempsey and is going to be sure of the competence and reliability of the referee before his champion will even go to Jersey City.

When the match was made Carpentier, Descamps, Kearns, Dempsey and Rickard agreed upon Robert Edgren as first choice for referee, and Kearns says he signed articles with this understanding.

Edgren Named in Articles. Interviewed, Kearns said: "We selected Robert Edgren. The referee must be a man who not only has ability and a clean reputation, but he must have a reputation all over the sporting world—a reputation that he'd protect with life. I won't trust any other kind of a referee. We settled this before the match was made, and it was one of the most important points."

"Dempsey is one of the fairest boxers in the world. He has been boxed many times and never claimed a foul, even when he was badly hurt, as he was by Carl Morris in their second fight. He never hits a questionable blow himself."

"If a claim of foul were to be put in during the bout, I want to know that the referee is a man who can't be swayed or influenced in any way to give an unjust decision."

"I don't want any advantage over the Frenchman, who is a fine, clean fellow and a sportsman. I know he doesn't want any advantage either."

He favored Edgren for referee because friends of his in France who knew Edgren advised him long before the match was made to look to him for a square deal."

Carpentier Favours Edgren.

Carpentier said: "I hope Robert Edgren will referee. He is entirely satisfactory to me. All I want is fair play—for Dempsey and for me. I am sure Mr. Edgren would give us that."

Robert Edgren states his position briefly:

"If I referee the big fight it will be strictly in the interest of fair play for both men," he says. "I will not accept the referee's fee, but will have it turned over to the wounded soldiers of Jersey City. Being an amateur in sport, I don't care to make money out of it. I never bet on a fight. I have always taken an interest in seeing that visiting athletes have an even break when they come to our country."

"Whatever happens, I want Carpentier to go back to France and tell the world the Americans are sportsmen. Also I want Dempsey's friends to feel that he has had what he always tells me is the only thing he wants—a square deal."

Carpentier Denies Saying He Would Beat Dempsey in Three or Four Rounds

Says Only Announcement Is: "Wait Until the Afternoon of July 2"—French Champion Will Be Satisfied With Any Just Referee Who Knows His Business.

By GEORGES CARPENTIER.

(Copyright, 1921.)

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 15.—I read with disgust in the papers yesterday statements that I had said I expected to whip Jack Dempsey in three or four rounds. This is absolute fabrication. My only word on the subject is "Wait until the afternoon of July 2."

We received a telegram at the camp today that the referee for my fight with Dempsey will be chosen by the New Jersey Boxing Commission tomorrow. I will be glad when this point is settled, but I am not worrying as much about it as some people think. Until the choice is announced I prefer not to comment on the men who have been proposed. As long as a just man who knows his business is selected, I shall be satisfied.

Descamps decided this morning that I am to have what he calls

"encore deux jour de repos"—two more days of leisure. This is a change in our program and means I will not put on a glove until Thursday. If anyone knows his business it is my manager, Francois, so I am satisfied to enjoy some more holidays.

Yesterday afternoon I had great fun watching my sparring partners box among themselves. I felt in great spirits and we all joshed Marcot, my fat cook, as he and Joe Gans banged away at each other in the hot sun. Once or twice I had to yell at Joe, "Don't hurt my cook," for my appetite is good these days, and it would be a tragedy if Marcot were disabled.

Old Sam McVey walked all the way from town yesterday afternoon, but there was no work for him. Rube Goldberg boxed with Journee. He is a youngster, but I like his looks.

I want to thank all the thou-

DEMPSEY NOT "AN EASY MARK" FOR CARPENTIER, DESCAMPS LETTER SAYS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 15.—"It is madness to say that Carpentier will win in one or two rounds," Francis Descamps, manager of the French champion, writes to the newspaper "L'Auto" in a letter which is printed in "L'Auto's" series of articles urging the French not to become overconfident. The letter is quoted to support the newspaper's previous analysis of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, tending to show that the Frenchman will not have an easy time.

Descamps' letter is dated Manhasset, L. I., May 21. He says:

"Georges is very well and full of confidence, although we know he has a tough job ahead. It is madness to say that Carpentier will win in one or two rounds, and the French who say or write that are rendering poor service to Georges, for in the case of a clean victory they diminish it in the eyes of sportsmen by assuming that Dempsey doesn't amount to much."

"Fortunately, over here they don't say that, but quite the contrary."

Mexican Petroleum Declines 13 Points—Steels, Equipments and Sugars Also Lose Ground.

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The stock market today was characterized by a general decline, with oil shares leading the way. Mexican Petroleum declined 13 points, while Steels, Equipments and Sugars also lost ground.

Continued strength as manifest among the European exchanges, sterling gaining another 2 1/2 points, while the dollar advanced 1/4 point. The continental exchanges moved in sympathy with sterling, francs advancing 3 points to 4.07 cents, while the dollar advanced 1/4 point to 1.11 cents. German marks were stationary at 1.41 cents and appear to be in supply locally. A further advance of about two-thirds of a cent in Portugal escudos brought the price of the latter to 14 cents, which is about a gain of 40 per cent in something less than two weeks.

Wheat continued to rise on the basis of better weather reports and larger receipts, the cash premium having fallen sharply during the last few days. July wheat advanced 1 1/2 cents, while September advanced 1 1/4 cents, and October advanced 1 1/2 cents. Cotton also advanced, despite the unfavorable Government report regarding consumption and stocks. The latter shows a decline of 100,000 bales, while the cotton stock is still a declining factor. The July delivery sold off 9 points to 12.25 cents.

Steel Trade Situation.

Midweek reviews of the steel industry are becoming monotonously similar, testifying to a general stagnation accompanied by a willingness to shade prices provided any material volume of business could be obtained. The steel trade has abandoned hope of a break in the summer dullness, but expects a moderate recovery. A further slowing down in the steel industry has occurred, and it is doubted whether the industry is still a declining factor. The July delivery sold off 9 points to 12.25 cents.

200 SCHOOL CHILDREN IN WELLSTON FOUND DEFECTIVE

Average of Malnutrition Higher Than Usually Found—Complete Report Not Yet Ready.
Almost 2000 children were examined in the school health survey made in Wellston last month, which was completed last Friday, and an unofficial statement given out by the committee yesterday shows that of the 1183 children examined, 200 were found to be physically defective and were given thorough physical examination by expert children's disease physicians. The entire survey showed that the average of malnutrition is much higher than is usually found, being 35 out of every 100 children. The survey also showed bad hygiene due to wrong living conditions in a large percentage of the children, and a very high percentage of potentially pre-tuberculous children.
According to doctors in charge of the survey, it is almost impossible to diagnose incipient tuberculosis in children, because the same symptoms may mean a number of things in children, whereas if they appear in adults they have but the one significance. Therefore, the diagnosis is potentially pre-tuberculous rather than definitely pre-tuberculous. Many of the cases in Wellston, so diagnosed, actually are actively tuberculous, the examining physicians say.
In commenting on the results of the examination, the doctors said that bad teeth and enlarged tonsils were not found more frequently in this survey than usual, but that a number of other physical defects stood out very prominently.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial "Nothing for Nothing," in which you give a reason for the failure of the home and housing scheme is valuable as an illustration of the necessity of vivid editorial imagination when called upon to account for something entirely unexpected. According to all the rules of good business and sound finance the scheme was good. The integrity and ability of the management was unquestioned. There was no lack of capital. The shortage of housing furnished an exceptional opportunity. Probably no other undertaking in St. Louis was ever launched with more confidence for success. But it failed. The promoters, investors, the general public and even the Post-Dispatch, all seem to be greatly surprised. Why should a scheme worked out by our best bankers and business men and amply financed, backed by the Chamber of Commerce and given full publicity by the newspapers, fail? Searching for a reason, it is admitted that no one connected with the proposition can be blamed. But a reason must be found, and so the Post-Dispatch picks its grip, sharpens its lead pencil and journeys into the land of magic and imagery for a solution—one that will do no violence to the conscience of high finance and philanthropy and yet offer solace to those who mourn and satisfy the passing inquisitive. Ah, now we have it. "The incorrigible self-dependence of Americans" is at the bottom of it all. They want nothing for nothing and have absolutely refused to buy homes upon their own terms and from which no profit has been made. This wonderful "American spirit" which cannot abide being under obligation to anybody or anything, has knocked into a cocked hat the wisdom acquired through a century of business experience. This would all be very beautiful if true; but it is not true. If any such spirit ever possessed us, it has been utterly crushed within five millions of us during the past two years, and it never did forbid the acceptance by any of us of necessities unless accompanied by profit or exploitation. "Not for nothing" is the reason because the promoters did not consider the psychology of the wage-earner at all. Just two years ago (on June 12) I wrote to Mr. Thos. W. Bennett and told him that the plan was ideal but could not possibly succeed. I told him why. The reason is very simple. Wage-earners (for whose benefit the plan was evolved) do not want to own their own homes. You can build homes, but you can't sell them to wage-earners. The association has proven my contention. But, if the association, instead of building homes to sell at cost had built homes to rent at cost it would have been swamped with business. If you don't think this is true, just advertise a six-room flat with all modern conveniences for rent at $15 per month (children not barred) and see how many wage-earners will be willing to take it. Let's quit dreaming about the working class.

M. KUHN.

Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the recent General Assembly held in this city at its final meeting requested that a letter be written expressing the thanks of the officers and members participating in said gathering for the liberal consideration and space given the proceedings. The news items were greatly appreciated by the commissioners, many of whom ordered the daily papers sent to their home towns for the information of those whom they represented.

CHAS. A. CHENEY.

For the Committee.

A Noble Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As a retired literary worker, who is the sister of Civil War veterans and the great-aunt of many soldiers who fought in the World War, I read the letter of Miss Georgina Roby in the issue of June 1 with much interest. I think it a beautiful idea to plant trees in memory of our boys who made the supreme sacrifice, planting a name plate on each tree.

I am going out to visit Memorial Park, and I congratulate Miss Roby on the letter, and the beautiful work she's doing to perpetuate the memory of our soldiers.

She is deserving of the thanks of all who gave them; best to support our country's flag, and her work will comfort many hearts who take a tender pride in the beautiful resting place of our dead heroes.

(MRS.) HELEN WATTS-MOORE.

"Slacker List."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I feel that somebody has made a terrible blunder in publication of the "War Department's" so-called slacker list of East St. Louis. Having a little time I investigated several of the names published. Out of 11 names seven had honorable discharges—five out of the army and two out of the navy (war-time discharges). The other four had not been listed at time of writing. One married man had his discharge backed to the door by that all who came could see.

Now, it is high time for Secretary Weeks to get busy before he publishes any more names that let some organization like the "American League" investigate.

HARVEY L. COLT.

ILLINOIS' GOOD EXAMPLE.

Missouri is indebted to her neighbor, Illinois, for the energy and business capacity which the latter has shown in the management of her great road-building project. As told in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, enormous savings have been made by the administration's refusal to accept excessive bids on road work and insistence upon fair prices.

The classic example is Vermillion County, where the lowest per-mile bid in February of $36,913 dropped, in May, to $25,856. This reduction, as pointed out by Gov. Small, is equivalent to $500,000 on a 50-mile contract.

Numerous instances were given of detailed bids, all showing a disposition among contractors to profit at the expense of the State, and also showing a readiness to get down to reasonable prices when the State refused to be bilked. But the most rapacious contractor of them all, Gov. Small says, is the Cement Trust, against which Illinois has declared war. The war declaration is in the form of a bill recently passed by the Legislature, at Gov. Small's instance, authorizing the State to condemn, purchase and operate cement plants.

Moreover, the Illinois executive is planning a general war upon the Cement Trust, as evidenced by his suggestion to Gov. Blaine of Wisconsin that the Governors of the midwestern states meet in conference to devise ways and means of protecting taxpayers against exorbitant cement prices. This question, it may be stated, has been discussed at length in Wisconsin, where a considerable public sentiment is said to have developed in favor of the State's manufacturing its own cement.

To Missouri at the present time every problem in road construction, as well as every proposed solution, is of vital interest. As stated at the outset we are under obligations to Illinois for the acumen and vigilant public service of Gov. Small. Missouri can best show her appreciation by emulating Illinois' example.

SWINGING INTO TRAVESTY.

A new chapter has been attached to the touching episode of Brother John, whose "love and affection" in opening his bank account without stint or limit to put Truman H. Newberry into the United States Senate brought tears of rapture to the eyes of sentimental partisans.

Over against the affecting testimony of the brother who seemed determined to ruin himself if necessary to insure the success of a family enterprise now has come the admission of Frederick B. Smith, the confidential financial agent of the Senator, that Brother John's self-impoverishment was not to be outdone by 10 other members of the Newberry family, who were pouring their treasure into the family pot. Among these liberal contributors were Mrs. Newberry and the Senator himself, who filed a sworn statement with the secretary of the Senate that no money was spent in his behalf with his "knowledge or consent."

Another circumstance which throws an interesting sidelight on the sworn statement is the testimony of the same Smith in which it was related that Commander Newberry had asked him over long-distance telephone from New York as to the condition of the family bank balance and when the expenses of the campaign would terminate.

A Senate committee, in determining the fitness of its members, enjoys a latitude of judgment which is not vouchsafed members of a jury in a criminal trial. It may use its own discretion in the interpretation of circumstances. It can know for a moral certainty that a man is a liar without proving it. And it can act on its knowledge without proof.

The present Newberry hearing has fallen into the vein of travesty. If the Elections Committee chooses to stand on fine technicalities to serve a partisan purpose, it, too, will have written "travesty" across the face of its verdict.

EDUCATION AND THE CARDINALS.

Mr. Edison may have a poor opinion of the college graduate, but the higher education, just the same, has been vindicated in St. Louis through ten consecutive days.

Consider the coruscating Cardinals who from the iniquity of obscurity have achieved the pinnacle of renown. Many factors have entered into this superb accomplishment, but the massed attack, it should be borne in mind, has been directed by a tactician of university training. Generalissimo Rickey has trailed the second arist to his lair and pursued the adventurous cosine through trigonometry's labyrinth. From his cheek-by-jowl association with the sages he has learned that history is the biography of the men who hit the ball in the pinch. True, this is a somewhat free rendering of the apothem, but the verity is as securely entrenched in the terminology of the game as in the chase, original text.

What is the higher education? A garnering of facts, an absorption of lore, a peering into the arcanas of what has been, a constant, searching survey of the things that are? Those are but the fleshly habiliments of learning. The soul of education is the application of knowledge to the situation at hand. And by that test we should say that Mr. Rickey is about as potent a phi-beta-kappa as has been commended.

pounded in the laboratory of scholarship. Anyhow, the Cardinals have been hitting the ball in the pinch, also in the non-pinch, and making rubric history.

Between the fragrant drifits of June and the melancholy days lies a stretch of hard, debatable calendar wherein the roses of expectancy perchance may turn to ashes. Perchance not. In any event, subject to such discount, a prophecy may be ventured. When October's larkspur is purple and the maples lavishly spend the gold they minted from summer suns, and the oaks blaze into garnet splendor, when autumn's pageant is in fullest bloom, the ornate setting, according to present signs and omens, is likely to be galvanized into bedlam as those pennant-winning Cardinals bang their plangent way into a world's championship, or, as Professor Rickey would say, the diamond's ne plus ultra.

When it comes to keeping up prices some shoemakers stick to the last.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S SECOND MISTAKE.

The School Board's failure to reinstate Miss Hesse at last night's meeting was, we believe, a mistake. An opportunity was missed to repair what a great body of public sentiment has pronounced an injustice.

The School Board, we are sure, does not imagine that it is not accountable to public opinion, though its attitude in this case almost warrants that construction. Technically, the board's decisions, to be sure, are not subject to recall. Practically, they are. This is a Government of public opinion, even if officials sometimes are inclined to forget that truth. From the rule of public opinion the direction of our schools is not exempt.

Could the Hesse case be disposed of forever by the vote of the School Board, then last night's action might possibly be defended on the ground of strategy. It cannot be disposed of in that way. The question of the dismissed teacher's reinstatement is as alive today as when the dismissal was first announced. It will continue to live. One of the board members announced last night that if the resolution for reinstatement were defeated he would introduce it again at the next meeting. That he will be supported in his purpose by thousands of our citizens cannot be questioned.

The wise course for the School Board to have followed last night would have been to reinstate Miss Hesse and bring to an end the agitation and discontent that threaten to undermine the board's capacity satisfactorily to perform its duties. In addition, some of the members might solemnly, if silently, resolve never again to misuse their official power in settling personal grievances.

Missouri has everything but good roads. Why not make it a 100 per cent State?

THE ANCHOR OF HOPE.

The warning of President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown University that America should not turn back from democracy, although "liberty itself has not as sweet a sound as once," confirms the striking optimism of Viscount James Bryce in his recent notable work on "Modern Democracy."

From his pinnacle of rare learning and natural gift the distinguished Briton also commands a scope of personal observation that must humble the student half a century or less his junior. At the end of the first year of Grant's administration Bryce had already arrived at the age of 32. Referring to this era in his recent book, he says:

The longer a man lives the more he is surprised at the audacity of prophets of the foretellers of evil no less than of the visionary enthusiasts of progress. I can well remember the gloomy forecasts in which not only European travelers but Americans themselves indulged in 1870 when they contemplated the political evils which then afflicted the United States, and which made municipal administration, and in some states the judicial bench itself, a byword and reproach among the nations. Most of these evils have now disappeared. Never despond, unexpected good arrives as well as expected evil.

Has ever such a reminder of those days in our history been more needed than it is today? With virtually only one political party in existence, with the entire South a wreck lying at the mercy of carpetbag pirates, with pelf and pettiness in the saddle at Washington, with the currency muddled and debased and the Government fearfully in debt, the outlook was anything but assuring.

Probably the greatest menace to democracy, and the least realized at the time, was the wealth of the nation's untapped resources in the disposition of which on a modern scale the Government was without experience and without laws, a ripe and reeking victim for plunder. As it turned out, we became a great country materially because of these resources. We have survived as a democracy in spite of them. It is as Bryce says, the prophets of both good and evil are equally to be mistrusted. "Unexpected good arrives as well as expected evil," or as unexpected evil. With the free circulation of public opinion and the power of the ballot, America's record is good ground for optimism.

Hiram Lloyd is in session again.

Socrates: That ought to settle it. Socrates: I think it does. Senators Johnson and Borah, who led the fight on the league, both voted aye.

Thrasymachus: Why not? Socrates: Economics are a little difficult in their relation to rent, shoes, drugs, etc., but when we see ourselves going bust and the people with whom we deal getting richer all the time we ought to be able to put two and two together.

Glaucou: One would think so.

Socrates: Let us buy a paper. Maybe our indignation has set in somewhere while we have been here idling.

We know Collector Moore will excuse us for not coming up with our income tax installment this time as we did in March. We have gone through a great deal since March, and a great deal has gone through us. We had thought that reconstruction would come to our aid, but upon the contrary. We had, too, our State income tax to pay in the interval, which was about as weird a matter as we ever participated in.

The State does not need that money; and we did need it to pay our Federal income taxes, as Collector Moore knows very well. We wish we could say something right encouraging to him about our next installment, which we pay in September; but we are afraid we cannot. We had supposed that when the Republicans got in power everything would be made as hunkydory within a very short time—that business would revive, prices recede, building resume, our troops brought from foreign lands, expenses for armies and navies diminished and goodness knows how many other nice things that we were given to understand the Democrats were incapable. Has it been like that? Not by a jugful. If the Republicans were to be judged tomorrow on the showing they have made since they took hold of the Government they would go to the workhouse.

We have been a little slow putting up our installment this time, but unless the people who wanted us to let them run the country are a little faster about getting it somewhere than they have been we will be even slower with the September payment. It is mighty nice of the Collector to remind us of the last day for payment as often as he has; but the truth is we all heard him the first time he spoke. What with rent profiteers, almost nothing cheaper than it was bus things we can do without and a few predatory people who got a late start literally taking our pin feathers off now, we don't see how we ever got around at all.

SUMMER READING.

The following is to be read by bookkeepers, newspaper men, shop girls and bank clerks during the lunch hour. It will bring comforting thoughts to those confined in this suburb of Gehenna during the summer months:

The steamer Bergensford, for Christiania, June 17; the Canopic, June 17, for Genoa, Naples, Athens, Gibraltar; the Mauretania, June 18, for Cherbourg, Le Havre, Southampton; the Santa Marta, June 20, for Havana, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires; the Sonoma, July 3, for Honolulu, Pango Pango, Papeete, Yokohama, Nagasaki, Shanghai.

Sir: Something should be done about it. A friend of mine from Portland waded into the rift of odoriferous "Swift"—which occasionally pervades our city—and was subsequently driven four times in a single day to the bathtub, where he used much perfume and soap.

Leaving St. Louis, he declared our city would be worth a "kcent" if it were not for the packing houses over the river. And because I laughed at his promiscuous bathing he believed I was ungenerous and said he'd never come to St. Louis again. Something should be done about it. Odoriferously.

CURBING THE LYING SPIRIT.

From the Ohio State Journal.

A GREAT deal is said and written about curbing the lying spirit in America, but little seems to be done about it. The obvious way is to curb it by punishing with appropriate severity those found guilty of this terrible crime against organized society. But this simple curative method is never, one might say, applied and mob rule continues to break out sporadically in various sections of the country. Of course, the trouble is that local courts and police authorities cannot escape the influence of local sentiment, the worst part of which, at least, is almost always on the side of the liars while the excitement lasts.

We are rather disposed to deplore the tendency to run to the Government at Washington with all our troubles, to federalize everything. We do not believe in paternalism. And yet here seem to be one case where one of the greatest of America's reproaches might well be guarded against by the Government.

The situation has continued substantially as it is long enough to show that there is little hope of curbing the lying spirit by local laws, as enforced by local authorities.

MAN'S SOCIAL EVOLUTION.

VERNON KELLOGG in Atlantic Monthly.

NOW man has gone a long way in the progressive evolution of his body and his functions. But it is apparently true that for 10,000 years there has been no notable progress in this evolution. If evolution is carrying man forward—and we do not doubt it—it is doing it in a different way. This way seems to be the way of social evolution, based on man's social inheritance and the biologic factor of mutual aid. The soundest of science leads us to the conclusion that man, by virtue of the possession of a social inheritance, as contrasted with the biological inheritance which is all the inheritance that other animal species have—a social inheritance which gives him the present realities and the future possibilities of a social evolution, in addition to his more personal evolution—has in his own hands a great instrument for determining the fate of himself as species, the future of mankind. If biology be depressing to man, as it may be to some, though it is not to me, in that it teaches him that man's life is close brother to all the rest of life; yet it is inspiring, in that at the same time it reveals how wonderfully much has been done by Nature in making man, and how now man has been let into partnership with Nature for making better man.

THE PERMANENT TARIFF BILL.

From the Courier-Journal.

IF the new permanent tariff bill follows the lines forecasted by a return to normalcy, and a plunge into worse than normalcy. It has the bad features of the old tariff acts of the standpatners, with new ones of its own. Under the old acts business knew what duties it was to pay until the law was superseded by another and could accommodate itself accordingly. There was at least stability of rates, which were fixed and known, carrying none of the serious disadvantages of fluctuation and uncertainty. Under the proposed law there would be no such thing as stability or certainty. The President would be invested with the autocratic power to raise the duties whenever it appeared that some body was not getting full protection against foreign competitors. And as the relations between the somebodies who want to write their own tariff schedules and the administrations which enact protective tariff laws have always been most intimate it is not difficult to imagine the rich pickings the somebodies would have, at the American consumer's expense, under a President in sympathy with the principle of the law which provided a bridge over which the somebodies and the President could get together.

BE YOUR OWN MANAGER.

A GREAT singer, who has spent about 15 hours a day taking care of his health and his voice, which are his capital, never makes a mistake. A great actor, whose every minute is required to continue being a great actor, also needs a manager. We take it that you are neither a great singer or a great actor, cause you belong to the vast majority of human beings.

Therefore while you need a manager, too, you don't need to hire one. You can be your own.

This is true whether you are your own boss, or what the Socialists call a wage slave.

If you are a wage slave, you are to some extent have to submit to the management of the man who set you up.

But he can only manage your working hours, and he can't manage your mind at all. It is your mind, and the way it is managed, that will make or break you before you get through.

Take over that job yourself. It is an unruly mind, make it law abiding. If it is a roaming mind, given wandering over all sorts of subjects when it ought to be confined to a discipline.

Keep it on the job it ought to be doing. Teach it to concentrate and make it practice this new accomplishment.

If it is a lazy mind, force it to work and to work hard. If it is a fretful mind, don't worry about it. Keep it working and it will learn to do its work without getting fidgety.

While you are managing your mind, manage your body, too. It controls its appetite, and take of bad food and tackle hard work with finishing.

Mind and body well managed will soon be worth more to you, and consequently more to your boss, than the extra value.

If your boss won't pay the extra value, get another boss, but be

THE THIEVES' MARKET

RIDE-NOUR laughed aloud, but Hildegard was not to be diverted from her woe. Through a blinding mist of unshed tears she was looking, not at him, not at the almost empty room, but at long, breathless, happy days surrendered to the first miserable breath of sorrow and a shadow of ennui on the face of the woman who had been so much to her.

By one of those transitions which seem to be almost as surprising to women as they are astounding to men, she became an entirely new person, and a shadow of ennui on the face of Hildegard was replaced by a frank holiday fashion and carried them at a slow pace until they debouched on the wide square of the Socolo.

Here Hildegard pulled one way and Mark another. Attracted by the flare of color of the flower market in the last days of its great glory, she was all for following up the stream of people carrying armfuls of flamboyant gladioluses, hugh roses and carnations or handfuls of purple, pink and saffron colored sweet peas, but Ride-nour was firm. Hildegard clinging to his arm in frank holiday fashion and carried them at a slow pace until they debouched on the wide square of the Socolo.

She saw herself for a pride in the face of his even sincerity, a niggard fleeing from the mere shadow of an imagined supplant. From the danger of surrender to the temptations of the market, she was saved only by the grace of circumstances or the understanding of smiling men. An impulse to repartition far beyond the measure of the wrong she had done to the man who had been so much to her, she felt that they happened to be in a room only half empty. Even so, she laid her hands, palms up, on the table before him in an eloquent gesture of appeal and surrender. "But it's because I was there and didn't see. Do you understand?"

Ride-nour leaned forward, took her two hands between his own and pressed them tightly together. He did not glance around to see if any one was looking. "What did it matter anyway in this town where to want to do a thing, even up to and including murder, was the best of all the ways to get ahead? It's the same old story. If he felt like drowning himself forever and forever in the wet pools of her eyes, who was to stop him?"

"My dear girl," he said presently, "the highway to adventure is like that—you have to look back to see it. It's seldom actually present, however, even when you find your way at the wrong end of a gun. It's like the perfect bloom of remembered happiness—always over your shoulder."

"Always over your shoulder," repeated Miss Estes, while neither she nor Ride-nour looked anywhere save in each other's eyes, and then added a little rebelliously:

"But why believe it? Why admit it? Oh, don't go away because the job is done! Let's go out and look for adventure in the likeliest places. If we can only think of it as just around the corner and hold our breath and take a peep-why, that's adventure in itself, isn't it?"

Ride-nour laughed again, not at the sense of what she said so much as because of a sensation of relief at coming from the hidden load of gloom which had been riding him hard for two of the longest days known to history.

"Do you call this an adventure?" asked Ride-nour, and then his eyes directed over her shoulder and lighted in sudden admiration: "Look, what's coming?"

She turned and saw approaching as noble, proud and lovable a dog as ever walked. He was held not in a collar but by a harness of two-inch leather straps which met in a large steel ring above his shoulders. To the steel ring was attached a heavy chain, and at the other end of the chain, restraining the tugging dog, came the rogue of that unfortunate face in which Ride-nour had blown a puff of smoke three days before.

RED DOTSMatron's Adaptation of Simple

By MARGUERITE MARTIN.

A N original adaptation of the popular dotted swiss that caused many admiring glances to single it out in a group of women, nearly all of whom, it must be confessed, were wearing this popular material in one or another of its many shades of color, was caught on the ever-ready sketch pad at the disposal of a tea given for an out-of-town bride at Forest Park the other afternoon.

The wearer was a young matron, who is noted for her original adaptations of the reigning modes.

In this case she took dark blue swiss with a cherry red dot and combined it with cherry red organdie, a quaint, long-waisted model with floating panels hanging several inches below the short skirt beneath.

The uneven line at the bottom of the skirt is a whim of the moment, which many generations of women who have struggled to make a hem even and to keep it from sagging or "hiking up," would have thanked Fate for. Fashion has thought of earlier in her career. There is nothing careless or unstudied about the uneven skirt line, though. A long sash or scallop or point has been found to be the best way of keeping a short skirt from taking on the dreaded "bunchy" look.

In this case the long, full, sweeping panels gave a graceful line, and turned over the top to form a gathered neplum just at the hip line, giving something of a Spanish air to the tail wearer.

Bands of cherry red organdie finished the panels, the neplum, the short kimono cut sleeves and the 1820 neckline, which, with the sloping shoulder lines and the long waist, added to the quaint old-timelessness of the frock. A hat of the dark blue and red dotted swiss matched the frock, as so many of the summer hats do match the gowns. It was

KING EAGLE'S RETURN

By Thornton W. Burgess

The worst that can never last:
Some day 'twill be far in the past.

—King Eagle

KING EAGLE knows. He is old. He is King Eagle, older than any of the other people of the Green Forest. He has seen many things happen and he has learned that nothing had last forever. Sooner or later it is a thing of the past.

No one had noticed that King Eagle had not stopped with the rest near the tree in which Sticktoes the Tree Toad was crying the joyous news that it was going to rain. He had passed over that tree and then up in great circles. "Up, up, up, up," he had flown until he was sailing round and round on his broad wings high above the smoke that filled the Green Forest, so high that he could look down and see all that was below for a great distance and could look up and see what there might be in the sky.

No one noticed King Eagle go and no one missed him. You see, no one had eyes for anything or anybody but Sticktoes the little prophet in the tree who was so insistently crying: "Rain, rain, it is going to rain!" "How do you know it is going to rain?" You are not high enough to see above the breath of the Red Terror, so how do you know?" demanded Old Man Coyote suspiciously. Of course, he meant the smoke when he said the breath of the Red Terror.

"I feel it. I feel it all over. It is going to rain soon," replied Sticktoes.

"How can he feel it?" whispered Boxer to Mother Bear.

"I don't know," growled Mother Bear. "Goodness knows I don't feel anything but heat and the breath of the Red Terror makes the air dryer than ever. But if he says he feels it, I guess he does. I never have known rain to come that Sticktoes didn't know it was coming long before the rest of us. Don't ask me how he knows. He just does, that is all. At the same time I wish we had the word of some one else as well."

Hardly were the words out of Mother Bear's mouth when above their heads there was a sharp rustling sound. It was made by the stiff feathers of King Eagle's great wings as he checked his flight and alighted in the top of a tree. Everybody looked up at him eagerly. Everybody waited for him to speak. Even Sticktoes was still.

Very handsomely King Eagle was dressed in his snowy white head and very proud he looked as became the king of the air. There was something of joy in his usually fierce-looking yellow eyes as he looked down at the eager faces below.

"I have been high above the breath of the Red Terror," said he, meaning the smoke, "and Sticktoes tells the truth. The Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind are driving up great clouds and they are black and heavy with rain. And they are coming soon. The Red Terror has turned and already it had nearly reached the edge of the Green Forest where it joins the Great Mountain. It is going to rain just as Sticktoes said. Let us hope that the Merry Little Breezes get those clouds here before the Red Terror reaches the Green Forest."

"They will! They will! Rain, rain, it is going to rain. It is going to rain soon!" cried Sticktoes joyously.

King Eagle looked over to the branch where little Sticktoes the Tree Toad sat. "He knows," said he.

"Rain, rain, it is going to rain!" shrilled Sticktoes.

laxed against Ride-nour's shoulder, and sobbed out.

"O Mark, I prayed for you so!" "You were the only prayer that has been answered, darling," murmured Ride-nour, holding her tightly to him.

He glanced down at her bare head and at the tangled hair, wondering vaguely what had become of her hat, and then his gaze was suddenly held by a gleam of white flesh showing through the torn shoulder of her jacket. There was something so virginal about that thin exposure, so significant of intimacy and hallowed mystery violently revealed, that he felt arise within him the surge of the clean flame of adoration. It held him powerless in its grip and lifted him swiftly as though on borrowed wings to undiscovered heights of a new emotion.

"Hildegard," he whispered in the voice of amazement. "Look up. Look in my eyes, dear. I—I'm in love!" Then he added despondently, "But you never can forgive me—never." She obeyed him. That smile of woman which makes her on occasion older than any man drew her mouth into adorable curves and filled her eyes with a glowing light. Her hands rose very slowly and she took possession of his head and lips.

"There!" she said breathlessly when at last he released her. "Are you forgiven?"

"Forgiven and paid," murmured Ride-nour.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

HOW IT STARTED.

'Twas not by Afton's rippling tide (Where Burns held hands with various lassies) That first the fatuous golfer plied His cleaving clecks and busy brassies.
The Dutch devised the royal sport, The Scots observed it, apprehensive, So grand a game, by all report, Would be expensive.

Not till a Scot had won a cup Which brought, in Holland, one pound sterling.
Did Caledonians take it up—They stuck to whiskey, war, and curling.
But when the laddie showed his pound,
And told how easy 'twas to win it,
The game of golf, by all report, Had something in it.

They laid out links on dunes and braes, From Afton's braw and bonnie banks To where the gentle hannocks stray Across the pass o' Killiecrankie, And soon the sons of Ayr and Perth, With clubs of sundry shapes and sizes, Were in all quarters of the earth, In quest of prizes.

Today if you would play the game, You learn it of some husky person Who burrs his "r's" and has a name Like McEntaggart or McPherson.
The hand of golf is on the land;
No power is strong enough to stay it Because, as you will understand, It pays to play it.

INTERNATIONAL
FUR EXCHANGE
TO BE LIQUIDATEDCreditor Bankers Announce Sale of Good Will and Furniture and Fixtures for $500,000AHERN AND DARRAGH TAKE THEMOther Assets of Exchange Will Be Disposed of Settlement of Its Indebtedness to Banks.

The passing of the International Fur Exchange, a $7,500,000 corporation organized in 1916, was certain this afternoon at the conference between bankers and fur traders, when the "good will" of the exchange was sold to C. Taylor Fur Co. and Fustun & Co. for $500,000 each, and "all other assets" of the International Fur Exchange would be sold to pay the indebtedness of the corporation.

The Taylor and Fustun companies were merged into the exchange when it was formed, and on its principal commercial assets being primary fur houses standing.

The International Fur Exchange on June 2 last owed approximately $14,000,000 to banks in New York. Its notes had been renewed by the banks from time to time, but it was announced there would be no further extension after June 2 this year. It was stated that the exchange had at that time that the Taylor and Fustun companies would be in business, but that the banks would liquidate the International Fur Exchange.

The statement given out by the National Bank, after today's conference with officers of the exchange and with other representatives of creditor banks, was as follows:

"In response to your inquiry reference to the affairs of the International Fur Exchange, we advise that the exchange has been organized and sold to a new corporation, of which Mr. A. Ahern is president, who was succeeded with the old company many years; the bankers received approximately $500,000 for 'good will' of the business."

"The Taylor Fur Co. has been reorganized and sold to a new corporation, of which Nelson R. Darragh is president. Mr. Darragh has been with this branch of the business for more than 20 years. The will of this business was also sold to the new corporation for approximately $500,000. Some time ago the Gilt Loh division of the business sold to a corporation known as Fustun Fur Co., of which B. Fustun is president, for approximately $500,000. All of the assets of the International Fur Exchange remain in the custody of the bankers' committee and liquidated to pay the indebtedness of the corporation."

"The re-establishing of the exchange, and the Taylor Fur Co. and the Fustun Fur Co. will place the exchange in the same position occupied before the liquidation of the International Fur Exchange and the volume of business they have always transacted so far toward continuing as the greatest primary market in the world."

Bank Directed Operation for the last 18 months had been under the direction of a committee of bankers, from which the exchange borrowed $23,000,000 in 1919, further extension of the note issued by the banks June 2 of about $2,000,000 of this note had been paid off."

In a statement to stockholders by the exchange, Mr. Philip R. Fustun, its president, said the exchange had a net asset sheet amounting to less than its indebtedness, added that claims against the exchange, insurance on the exchange and other accounts greatly reduced the debt. Some time a committee of local creditor banks issued a statement that with all assets of the exchange, upon the liquidation of the exchange, the net asset sheet of the exchange was less than $2,000,000.

Walter W. Smith, after the reorganization of the exchange, was asked what he would do for the exchange and the Taylor and Fustun companies.
